PARTING IS SUCH SWEET SORROW for Mrs. Martha Savercool as she drops a 50-cent piece into one of Stroudsburg's new parking ticket envelopes, being held by meter attendant Loren Doty. After placing the fine into the red envelope, all Mrs. Savercool has to do is seal it shut, and drop it into a box attached to the meter. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

Stroudsburg To Feature New Parking Tickets

By Paul Carlson

YOU'LL BE GOING into the red if you pick up very many of the new Stroudsburg parking tickets.

Beginning today, the borough is changing the color of these pesty little tags from green to red.

Borough Manager Harold Snyder announced that there will be another important change. You'll be able to pay your parking fine right on the spot.

It will work this way:

Two Parts

The new ticket will come in two parts. One part will be kept by the meter attendant, while the other will fold into a gummed envelope.

The errant motorist will be able to drop a 50-cent piece into the container, paste the flap shut, and deposit in a box attached to the meter which caused him the trouble in the first place.

If the fine is paid within three days, the envelope states, the levy is only 50-cents. However, if this is not done, an enforcement warrant will be issued for a fine ranging from $1-10, plus $5 costs.

So before you see red, take care of that ticket pronto by dropping it —together with 50-cents—into the nearest meter box.

SOMETHING NEW is being added. Meter Attendant Gaylord Heberling attaches a collection box onto a Stroudsburg parking meter. From now on, motorists can deposit their parking tags, together with 50-cents, into collection boxes on all borough meters. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

Warsaw Pact Powers Meet

WARSAW, May 26 (AP)—Warsaw Pact powers held a weekend top-level meeting in Budapest to discuss occupation troop cuts as part of the new Soviet "peace offensive," informed sources said tonight.

They said the meeting was a follow-up to the recent extended peace campaign coming out of Moscow. It was called apparently to talk about Soviet proposals for reducing Russian forces in Communist bloc countries if NATO powers would slash their forces in western Europe, the informants said.

Campaign

Premier Nikolai Bulganin last week brought the campaign to another climax by suggesting direct disarmament talks with France and renewing suggestions that the rival military blocs engage in a mutual reduction in forces.

Informants said Wlaydslaw Gomulka, Poland's Communist party boss, and Premier Jozef Cyrankiewicz left Warsaw for the meeting Friday night.

Graham Talks On Marriage

NEW YORK, May 26 (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham said tonight he's convinced that "all the trouble in marriage" is caused by couples "breaking and forgetting" the laws governing marriage as laid down in the Bible.

The evangelist told a capacity crowd of 18,500 the "home is the basic unit of all society . . . The home was the first institution God established after creation of man . . . But there is something desperately and tragically wrong with the American home today . . . "

Graham said a successful marriage is based on "physical attraction, mental affinity and spiritual oneness . . . Unless you have spiritual oneness your marriage is headed for the rocks."

The evangelist said "marriage is a permanent relationship never to be broken . . . God never meant for man and wife to be apart . . . "

Pennsylvania To Help

TRENTON, N. J., May 26 (AP) — Pennsylvania's Republican chairman says the Keystone State will make wide gains for the GOP in next year's elections.

Johnson Chills Hopes Of Administration On Budget

WASHINGTON, May 26 (AP)—Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas chilled the hopes of administration leaders today that the Senate could be counted on to restore expected House cuts in the military budget.

Johnson told reporters he does not regard as "sacred and untouchable" the 36 billion dollars in new funds President Eisenhower originally asked Congress to make available for defense.

"The executive agencies have conceded already that they can live with $1,300,000,000 in defense cuts made by the House," Johnson said. "They claim now that the other $1,200,000,000 is the part that cannot be touched.

Sacred

"A few weeks ago the whole sum was considered sacred and untouchable. Congress will continue to do what it has been doing—and that is to eliminate every cent that cannot be justified in the national interest."

Johnson said that in defending his budget Eisenhower "has said things with which most of the American people agree."

"I know of no one who wants to cripple our defense program or America's position in the world," Johnson said. "The real issue is whether too much money is being spent and whether it is being spent wastefully.

"No budget recommendation is sacred. Congress must still apply its judgment as to the size of the recommendations."

The House, which resumes debate tomorrow on the defense money bill, has given every outward sign it will approve its Appropriations Committee's $2,586,000 slash in Eisenhower's new money requests. Secretary of Defense Wilson has asked that about half of this amount be restored.

If both chambers should approve the prospective House cut, military spending for the year beginning July 1 would not necessarily be reduced by that amount because of the large carryover of defense funds voted by previous congresses.

State Senate To Consider Bridge Bill

THE STATE Senate is scheduled this week to begin consideration of the House-approved bill authorizing construction of a new bridge over Brodheads Creek between Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg.

The measure as approved, 171-0 by the House provides for the bridge to be built between Lenox Ave. in East Stroudsburg and Fifth St. near the northern boundary of Stroudsburg.

It would be in addition to the new bridge which will be built farther downstream to replace the inter-borough bridge destroyed by the 1955 flood.

The measure is sponsored by Assemblyman Hanford L. Cleveland (R-Monroe) and August Metz (R-Pike).

Workmen Find Woman's Body

BOSTON, May 26 (AP)—The body of a woman was recovered tonight from a tangled mass of rubble some 17 hours after a shabby 100-year-old tenement building collapsed with a thunderous roar.

Three other persons escaped by leaping to fire escapes attached to an adjoining building. The victim was believed to be Mrs. Susan Johnson, a 68-year-old crippled widow.

Third Straight Crown

GREENSBURG, May 26 (AP) — Rusty Garver, a 15-year-old York boy with an unerring eye, today holds his third straight state VFW marbles championship and his fourth in seven years.

Track Star Charged With Girl's Murder

HACKENSACK, N. J., May 26 (AP)—An 18-year-old high school track star was charged with murder today in the strangling of Ruth Starr Zeitler, a pretty classmate.

Fred C. Galda, first assistant Bergen County prosecutor, said Ronald Marrone, a sophomore at Fair Lawn High, had dictated a statement which Galda termed a confession to the slaying of the 15-year-old girl.

The youth was among more than 40 persons questioned since Ruth's body was found in a lonely lovers' lane area in Paramus last Thursday. He was picked up and brought to the prosecutor's office here for the third time at 7:30 a.m. today and was questioned for more than five hours.

Ruth, a pretty brunette, left for afternoon classes at the high school on May 17. She did not arrive for classes and never came home.

Autopsy

When her body was found, her white belt was knotted about her neck and some of her clothing was rolled up in a ball nearby.

An autopsy report said she had been raped.

Galda said Marrone picked up Ruth in a car at 11:30 a.m. on the fatal day, drove her to the deserted wooded area and managed to return to classes at the school about 12:20 p.m.

The assistant prosecutor gave out only sketchy details on the information in Marrone's statement.

Galda said there apparently was a struggle in the car at the scene. He said Marrone lifted Ruth from the vehicle, placed her on the ground, took her clothing from the car and placed it alongside the body, and then stuffed a tissue paper gag in her mouth.

Galda reported authorities were led to suspect Marrone because the youth on that day did not take a customary ride in his car with another boy and girl before afternoon classes.

The high school operates on a split-session period. Marrone and Ruth went to school in the afternoon only.

The slain girl, known as "Starr," to her friends, was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Zeitler of Fair Lawn. Her father, an insurance broker, described her as a "good kid" who always telephoned if she was to be a few minutes late getting home at night.

The girl will be buried at Fair Lawn tomorrow.

Chiang Fires Three During Formosa Riots

TAIPEI, Formosa, May 26 (AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek fired the garrison commander and two police chiefs today for poor handling of Friday's anti-American riots.

The Nationalist Chinese President then asked U. S. Ambassador Karl L. Rankin to convey to President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles his profoundest regrets at the riots, in which the U. S. Embassy and Information Office were wrecked and 13 Americans hurt. Thirty-two Chinese also were hurt and one was killed.

The mob outburst protested a U. S. court-martial acquittal of M. Sgt. Robert R. Reynolds, 42, of Colora, Md., accused of the voluntary manslaughter of a 33-year-old Chinese man. Reynolds told the court he caught the man looking through a bathroom window while his wife was taking a shower, and shot in self defense when the intruder came at him with a cudgel.

Chiang dismissed the Taipei Garrison commander, Lt. Gen. Huang Chen-wu; the commander of military police, Lt. Gen. Liu Wei, and the chief commissioner of police of Formosa, Lt. Gen. Lo Kan.

Chiang, who returned Saturday from his retreat at Sun-Moon Lake in central Formosa, spent an hour with Rankin in a Sunday conference at the President's home.

Two Sides Line Up Forces

HARRISBURG, May 26 (AP)—Republican and Democratic leaders today lined up their forces for a battle in the House this week on GOP cuts of Gov. Leader's proposed budget and a new school subsidy plan.

The bulk of the governor's budget is in position for final action—probably Wednesday.

Good Morning!

No two people are alike, and both of them are glad of it.

Money isn't everything. But it's way ahead of whatever is in second place.

Dallas Residents Flee From Flooded Homes

Eisenhower, Adenauer Survey Urgent Problems

GETTYSBURG, Pa., May 26 (AP)—President Eisenhower and West German Chancellor Adenauer today surveyed urgent east-west problems from the front porch of the President's farm, and then took off for Washington to continue their talks.

The White House clamped a secrecy lid on the leisurely get-together here, but it seemed certain that Germany's role in any world disarmament plan led the list of the problems discussed.

Eisenhower, dressed in a speckled gray sports jacket and gray slacks, was known to be ready in advance to assure the 81-year-old German leader the United States would never make an agreement which would jeopardize Germany's future reunification.

Adenauer, his formal black clothes contrasting sharply with Eisenhower's casual attire, posed solemnly for pictures with the President afterward. He then accompanied Eisenhower on a 45-minute tour of the chief executive's farm, listening attentively while Eisenhower talked about his prize cattle.

Arrival

Adenauer arrived on one of the President's twin engine aero commanders after spending the weekend in the New York area before beginning his formal three-day visit to the capital.

The German leader's trip to this country, his fifth, seemed timed to give him maximum campaign ammunition to help him and his Christian Democratic Party in their bid for re-election next September.

But Adenauer also came at a time when Eisenhower was in position to give him a preview of the new American disarmament plan which is to be proposed to Russia in talks re-opening in London Monday.

Disarmament chief Harold Stassen, carrying the plan in his briefcase, left Washington for London an hour after Adenauer arrived here for his round of talks with Eisenhower, Secretary of State Dulles and other officials.

The Gettysburg conference, similar to one Eisenhower held with India's Prime Minister Nehru last year, brought Eisenhower and Adenauer together without their corps of advisers. Only a translator sat in on the meeting.

In addition to Adenauer's translator, Eisenhower and his guest were joined part of the time during their talks here by the State Department's chief of protocol.

There was no official word on what the chiefs of state talked about, other than farming.

Adenauer in fact, appeared somewhat baffled by the whole business, including the 45-minute tour of the farm, following a creamed chicken luncheon in the white brick Eisenhower farmhouse.

He listened politely, however, as the President showed him the livestock—including a black Brahma bull which, Eisenhower said, gains three pounds a day.

Leader Of Haiti Workers In Command

PORT AU PRINCE, May 26 (AP)—Daniel Fignole, a forceful young leader of Haiti's workers, was inaugurated provisional president today, thus averting civil war—at least for a few hours.

A crowd of 10,000 massed in the square around the Presidential Palace went wild at the swearing-in ceremony.

Workers and peasants took over the streets, rolling in the grass and in the dust in an ecstasy of joy. Hundreds fired shots into the air.

But the atmosphere remained explosive. Police stood at all street intersections, trigger fingers ready.

Vigilantes armed with clubs and stones roamed the city, halting all automobiles in a search for arms.

Two hundred American tourists trapped in their hotels during 24 hours of wild shooting and artillery fire when civil war threatened, were trying to leave the country. All air line schedules to the Caribbean islands were canceled.

Scores of Haitians were killed or wounded in the firing yesterday and today, but it was impossible to establish any accurate count of casualties.

One of the provisional President's first acts was to accept the resignation of Brig. Gen Leon Cantave, the army chief who had ruled Haiti since last Tuesday.

A challenge to Cantave's command of the army by the Haitian police chief, Col. Pierre Armand, had threatened civil war in Haiti. In his resignation, Cantave said "bitter political passions" had culminated in the troops engaging in "fraticidal battle."

Both Cantave and Armand stood at Fignole's side as he was sworn in.

Col. Antonio Kebreau, commander of the Southern Military District, was named army chief in Cantave's place.

Senate Labor Committee To Open Legislation Hearings

WASHINGTON, May 26 (AP)—Senate Labor Committee members start hearings tomorrow on legislation designed to prevent what they have called "shocking abuses" in the handling of employe welfare and pension plans.

One of the bills under consideration would carry out a recommendation by President Eisenhower to curb racketeering. An even tougher measure has been introduced by Sen. Douglas (D-Ill), with the backing of AFL-CIO leaders.

Both Douglas and Secretary of Labor Mitchell have been scheduled as witnesses for the opening session of a subcommittee headed by Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass).

The House Labor Committee has announced tentative plans to start its own hearings Wednesday.

The proposed legislation comes from a two-year investigation by another Senate Labor subcommittee, directed first by Sen. Ives (R-NY) and later by Douglas.

In a report last year, this subcommittee said that while the great majority of welfare and pension plans are honestly administered, "there have been shocking abuses, such as embezzlement, collusion, kickbacks, exorbitant insurance charges, and various other forms of malfeasance."

The report estimated that over 75 million workers and their dependents now are covered by these plans, with annual contributions of nearly seven billion dollars. The reserves amount to some 30 billion.

The legislation is intended to assure disclosure of their financial operations in the belief that this would serve as a deterrent to malpractice and mismanagement.

The administration measure calls for the registration of welfare and pensions plans with the Secretary of Labor, and the filing of sworn annual reports giving information about receipts, disbursements, assets, liabilities and other data.

Douglas' bill requires the filing of similar registration and financial reports with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

New Rains Add To Danger In Southwest

DALLAS, Tex., May 26 (AP) — Thousands of Dallas residents fled their flood-threatened homes today while in other portions of Oklahoma and Texas efforts were made to control flood damage and prepare for more heavy rains.

Dallas police said an estimated 2,500 persons from three sections of the city would be evacuated tonight.

Oklahoma highway officials fought to save U.S. Highway 70 from being destroyed by the rising wind-whipped Lake Texoma. More than 30 resorts and fishing camps at the lake were under water.

At Elgin, Tex., 40 miles east of Austin in the south central portion of the state, 5.50 inches of rain fell today sending more water into the already swollen Colorado River.

Fort Worth, where more than 4,000 persons fled their homes, had torrential rain during the night and this morning. A tornado destroyed a barn in suburban Haltom City, and lightning set fire to an upholstery shop.

Forecast

A severe thunderstorm forecast for most of south central Texas and the Del Rio-Eagle Pass area was issued by the weather bureau.

Three gates on Mansfield Dam, 22 miles north of Austin, were closed to prevent flooding on the Colorado River between Austin and the Gulf of Mexico. Heavy rains fell there today.

Elgin, with 5.50 inches received the most rain, while Austin got 2.50 inches during the night.

The dam is the main flood control facility on the river.

In Dallas, the Trinity River stood at 40.2 feet in mid-afternoon. This was 12 feet above flood stage and 2 feet above major flood stage. The river was rising at the rate of about one foot an hour, according to Dallas police.

The weather bureau had predicted it would rise to 38.5 feet by 6 p.m. today but revised its estimates four times to read 41.5 feet.

The 2,500 persons evacuated lived in south and southeast Dallas. It was the third time residents in some areas had been evacuated this year.

The Red Cross disaster chairman for Dallas, John W. Mayo, said 148 persons were housed in the Red Cross shelter at Fair Park during the night and that more were expected. Others will be taken care of in private homes or in buildings at the park.

Procession of children formed at the school and moved up Ridgeway St. to the statue in the courtyard. Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus served as a guard of honor. Adults who gathered on both sides of the street recited the Rosary. After the coronation children moved into the church following altar boys and the Cross to hear a sermon on the Blessed Mother by Rev. William Healy of Scranton. Eighth grade girls were received into the Sodality of the Blessed Mother and medals were presented to them. Rev. Harold G. Durkin officiated at benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. Seasonal Phone Rates To Be Terminated

SEASONAL telephone service rates — once quite popular in this area — will be terminated as of next Saturday. The announcement was made by the Public Utility Commission.

The five-month rate-elimination will affect the Bushkill, Cresco, Delaware Water Gap, Mount Pocono and Stroudsburg locales.

Trend

The change, prompted by Bell Telephone Co., was attributed to the trend to convert the former resort-season (Summer) homes into year-round residences. The seasonal rate has dwindled to where it was used by but 95 patrons.

Two exchanges were switched from the Slatington to the Northampton exchange. They were Lehigh Township in Northampton Co. and North Whitefield Township in Lehigh Co.

McClintock Adds High Humor To Waring Show

IN EVERY show-business organization there is inevitably one performer whose name, face and talents are recognized by all — this in addition, of course, to the "star" of the show. In the case of Fred Waring and the Pennsylvanians, who present "Musicades" for the benefit of the Monroe County YMCA on Wednesday, at 7 and 9:15 at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, that "man-behind-the-scenes" is Poley McClintock.

James Roland McClintock was born in Tyrone, Pa., next door to Fred and Tom Waring. It was only natural that this lifelong member of the world's greatest musical organization become a "charter member," and such was the case. A natural clown in addition to his abilities with percussion instruments, Poley has come "all the way" with the Pennsylvanians.

He joined Fred and Tom in 1918, in the days of the four-piece "Banjazzatra," appeared in vaudeville with them and toured the nation with college engagements in the "jazz" era. He went with them to Europe. And during the past two decades, Poley's hilarious antics have brightened up thousands of radio programs, TV shows and personal appearances. He estimates he has travelled a million miles with his drums, cymbals and what-not — and for Poley it has been a wonderful experience, every inch of the way.

Of all the Pennsylvanians, Poley shows up as a "real pro." Each peformance is a bright new experience for him, and the banter between him and Fred Waring is spontaneous and refreshing. He cracks jokes because life has always been fun for him, and the friendship he has maintained among professional people and just plain fans through the years number in the thousands.

Back when Fred Waring made a couple of Warner Brothers movies, Poley played the comic — generally in a blazer sweater. In television, he was Fred's foil and clown. And his frog-voice patter in radio made him an international favorite.

Forty years after the beginnings, Poley faces the future with a smile too. He lives in New York with his wife, Yvette, and their college student son, 'Jamie', and their summers are spent at Shawnee-on-Delaware. There Poley supervises activity around Shawnee Inn's beautiful pool, and busies himself by amusing the children of guests and Country Club members. His broad smile and even disposition are well known and recognized on Stroudsburg's streets, where his friends are legion.

Poley's business is bringing pleasure to the show-goers of the nation — but his business is a real pleasure and satisfaction to him, personally. And this life-long friend and associate of Fred and Tom Waring will be among the 40 Pennsylvanians on stage at ESSTC Wednesday.

Tickets for the show are available now at the YMCA, Flagler's Drug Store and the Wirt Miller Grocery in Stroudsburg and the Kresge Drug Store, East Stroudsburg.

Anti-Billboard Bill Feared Doomed

The "Battle of the Billboards" is pretty much up in the air right now after last Thursday's action of the Senate Public Roads Subcommittee.

It finally cleared the anti-billboard bill, but only after attaching a 17-billion-dollar price tag to it.

The watered-down measure the subcommittee sent on to the Senate floor is intended to encourage the states to ban advertising signs on some sections of the 41,000-mile interstate highway system.

But it tied this anti-billboard bill to a new proposal to increase the mileage of the interstate system by 7,000 miles. Cost of this additional mileage was estimated at 17 billion dollars, compared with the 27-billion-dollar cost of the 41,000-mile system. It would stretch out the road program from 13 to 20 years.

The action, observers said, probably spells the doom of any anti-billboard legislation in Congress this year. It would be unfortunate if such were to be the case.

The two measures should be brought up separately and each weighed on its own merits. And the anti-billboard legislation should be given priority so it can be made to cover the entire interstate highway program from the start.

If the increased mileage provision is allowed to remain attached, the billboard measure will have little chance of passage until the program is well under way. That could cause complications in every state and make it more difficult to pass a sensible billboard bill in a later Congress.

Congress should clarify the situation now for the benefit of the states, the motoring public and the billboard industry.

Says Teacher College Bills Need Study

Members of the Pennsylvania Senate may have missed the significance of two bills they passed unanimously last week . . . bills affecting the 14 State Teachers Colleges.

One, Senate Bill 330, would grant salary increases to the instructional staffs of the schools.

The other, Senate Bill 694, would require a student "contingent fee" of $150 a year for Pennsylvania residents. It specifies that this money shall go for the operation of the schools "including payment of teachers' salaries."

This means simply that the students in the teacher training institutions will pay the salary raises of their professors.

A strong case can be made for raising the money this way rather than by new taxes. Hitherto decided by the Board of Presidents of the 14 schools, contingent fees this yar were only $90. The board has already decided to raise them to $100 for next year.

Compared to other institutions, the 14,000 students in our teachers colleges are getting by pretty cheaply. Their expenditure for room, board, books and fees (contingent and other averages about $700 a year. Penn State estimates the average cost to its students at $1,300-$1,400 a year. This includes a contingent fee of $280 a year for Pennsylvanians.

Then why not raise the STC fee? The professor certainly need the salary increase.

For one thing, the State, too, gets by rather cheaply in the operation of the 14 campuses. This biennium the State appropriation is $15,600,000. Penn State, with about the same number of students as the STC system, is getting a State appropriation of $25,194,000.

More important perhaps, the administrators of the teachers colleges argue that they are the "poor man's institutions of higher learning"; that they offer students from moderate and low income families an education at a cut rate as well as a chance to become teachers.

Whether the teachers colleges should continue as "cut-rate" schools is another question.

Under the law, the State is supposed to pay the tuition of the Pennsylvania residents in the STC system. In effect, they are supposed to be tuition free. Senate Bill 694 raises the contingent fee to the point that it is debatable whether it would still be a fee or would become tuition.

That's the philosophical side of the issue.

The administrators of the teachers colleges have a practical argument, too. They say that many otherwise qualified students would be unable to pay the extra $50 a year Senate Bill 694 would require.

Before voting on the bill, the House ought to have more information on exactly what effect a $150 contingent fee would have. The House should give the college presidents a chance to prove that a fee increase really would rule out an education for a sizeable number of students.

Certainly the bill should not be passed without far more careful study than the Senate gave it.

Resting Up After Physical Check-Up Exposes One To Silly Drug Ads On TV

It has become increasings customary for those who can afford it to get what they call a check-up. This amounts to taking three or four days off, going into a hospital, getting stuck with needles all over the place while doctors labor valiantly to discover why you are not dead.

For this you pay money, although some manage to put it on their expense accounts like a meal at "21." It is a good thing to do, I am told, and prolongs your life until you retire at 65 when you lose your expense account. That is the saddest thing about retiring. There is a new gimmick which is very helpful to those over 65. It is to be appointed a consultant. That is a generic term for anybody who is not needed but is paid nevertheless. The consultant often lasts till he dies.

Some companies send their executives to the Mayo Clinic. Others go to the Lahey Clinic in Boston which is where they seem to know most about ulcers; when a businessman develops an ulcer it is proof that he has thought too hard in the company's interest, has earned his pay and now has an ulcer to show for it.

Such men are highly honored in the business world, although back in the days of Andrew Carnegie and Charlie Schwab, they were even more honored for making huge profits. When a man runs a company that makes an enormous profit for the stockholders, they, the stockholders, will not worry about whether he has an ulcer or a polyp. All they want him to do is to produce the profits and to show them how to beat the income tax.

I once met a man who made this point about taxes: he said that as long as he made considerably more than he paid, he did not object to the income tax; but when he paid more than he earned, he was resentful. He was a soft and gentle person who believed in government. He will need many check-ups before he retires, because he is likely to be disillusioned often, particularly by budget makers and Presidential speech-writers who will surely not get ulcers or polyps or other troubles which come with maturity.

Well, I done get me a check-up to discover if I have been more wicked than is permissible. So again, I get stuck by needles which is the mark of scientific exploration. What would a modern doctor do without a needle? And they have all kinds of needles and tests and ways of pocking and probing and when it is all over, the doctor cuts the diet another few hundred calories which will ruin another few suits and serve no particular purpose in making me more attractive, as that is now impossible.

Also, I am back to watching television. While there are a few items each day that one can listen to even in the circumstance of a check-up, the amount of tooth-cleaning, face-cleaning, breath-cleaning, I have to listen to is truly unbelievable. But what makes television intolerable is when an actor dresses himself as a doctor and discusses the most private habits of a human being, the working of the bowels and the stomach and other private parts. Why such matters need to disturb a lovely, romantic tale of boy and girl which arouses those few pleasant nostalgic memories left to us, I cannot tell.

Isn't there anything to advertise but how dirty was the girl's face that you last kissed? Ordinary cleanser just takes off dirt. So what you kissed was not the lovely, peach-blown face of your lady love but a dame with a double black smudge that you never saw until you looked at television. And now you know!

Surely there is no delicacy in all this, and sooner or later there must be a rebellion against watching pills go through the bowels when what one really wants is to watch a bit of unrealistic romance or a murder that never could have happened.

So, I am getting a check-up and I recalled to a young doctor that the story that the chinese pay in advance to keep healthy is a myth, undoubtedly invented by some advertising man who had an angle.

Try and Stop Me —by Bennet Cerf

A butcher in the Bronx got along swimmingly with every tenant in his building excepi a mysterious swami who occupied the third-floor rear. How that butcher and swami loathed each other!

One evening, however, the swami found his cupboard was bare and he was forced to patronize his enemy's shop. "Give me a pound of liver," he ordered a clerk. The butcher beckoned the clerk to the rear of the establishment. "Here's our chance to put one over on that fraud," he exulted. Then, pointing to his clerk's thumb, he sang, "Weigh down upon the swami's liver."

It's always easy to spot a nudist in town, claims Earl Wilson. He's the lad who checks into a hotel with an empty suitcase.

The late Fred Allen always insisted the surest way to get into television was to make an atrocious movie.

Budget Time Needed For A Home Project

By Anne Heywood

"You've got to be on top of the clock," was an expression my grandmother's cook often used. What she meant, of course, was that if you let time get you, if you let it run you instead of you running it, you can have a miserable life.

That's especially true of people who want to operate some kind of home business.

Attractive Product

You can have the most attractive product, at the most reasonable price, an enormous number of customers and all kinds of good word-of-mouth advertising. But if you don't know how to handle your time, if you're not "on top of the clock," you're going to be lost.

That is Mrs. Y.'s trouble. Fortunately, she realized it in time.

"I'm married, and have two children in school," she writes.

Home Baking

"I have always loved to cook. Some months ago, I decided to do home baking professionally, making cakes my specialty. I remember you once said it pays to specialize.

"I read all the right books and I figured my prices just right. My customers love the cakes, and business is growing. But—I don't think I can stand it. I haven't a minute to call my own. I never see my friends and family and . . ." Then she went on for three pages of complaint.

It's a typical problem of a new home business. Here are some points that will help straighten it out.

First Six Months

1. Don't plan to have any social life for the first six months of a new home business. Talk to your friends, get the cooperation of your family—and get your own cooperation! You'll be busy getting your project off the ground and you'll have no time for play. But if you work hard at the beginning, you'll get it so well- organized that you'll later be able to have a good deal of leisure.

2. Know when to say "When"! Resist the temptation to get too much business at first. Say "No" to that extra customer who needs a special order. Figure the amount of time you can successfully spend and see how many cakes—or whatever—you can turn out in that time. After that, stop!

Over-Eager Customers

Don't let over-eager customers pressure you into delivering things early, when you can't. You'll break your neck trying and get more flustered than ever.

3. Have some extra help on tap. See if you can find a friend who can occasionally lend a hand—on a paying basis. Unless you learn to delegate some of the duties, you'll never be a success in business!

If you're having trouble selling a home product, or finding time a problem, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope, care of this newspaper, and I'll send you Pointers On Marketing a Home Product.

Robert S. Allen Reports

Congress To Crack Down On AEC Chief's Power

Washington, May 26—Atomic Commission Chairman Lewis Strauss is headed for a new extraordinary crackdown by Congress.

This latest eruption in the long - raging fued between Strauss and the Joint Congressional Atomic Committee will be in the form of drastic curbs on his Administrative authority.

A provision is being written into the budget authorization bill of the Atomic Commission specifically requiring him to do the following:

Get prior congressional approval for each atomic research and development project before it is begun. Strauss does not have to do that now. Under existing law, the Commission has blanket authority to launch such projects.

Obtain similar advance authorization for grants and subsidies to utilities and others for the construction of power and research reactors. That need not be done at present.

Keep the Joint Committee fully informed of all of Strauss' official activities; that is, what he does not only as chairman of the Atomic Commission, but also as the President's atomic adviser, and as consulting member of the National Security Council, top policy agency of the government.

These requirements are the first of their kind in the decade-old history of the Atomic Commission. No other chairman has faced such a sweeping crackdown.

Also significant, it is bipartisan. Republican and Democratic Committeemen are backing it. Foremost among them are Representatives Carl Durham (D., N.C.), chairman, and James Patterson (R., Conn.).

Round 'n' Round—These unprecedented curbs are the second set to emerge from the Joint Committee against Strauss.

Several years ago a provision was written into the law expressly requiring him to keep all the other members of the Atomic Commission fully appraised of what he is doing and planning.

This unusual step was taken when Committee ire was stirred by two things: (1) Complaints by Strauss' colleagues that important decisions were made without their knowledge or approval; (2) an attempt to revise the Atomic Act to set up "one-man rule" of the mighty agency.

Despite that explicit legislative requirement, Commissioner Thomas Murray last week again charged Strauss with withholding important information.

The bitter vendetta between the two officials is playing a major role in the new crackdown on Strauss. Murray's term expires June 30. A big majority of the Joint Committee favor his reappointment, and have recommended that to President Eisenhower.

Strauss is against it. Committeemen are openly crediting him with preferring no appointment be made rather than for Murray to be renamed. Failure to fill his place would leave two vacancies on the five-member Commission.

Committeemen are saying this is exactly what Strauss wants, as it would make him, in effect, the "one-man ruler" of the Atomic Commission.

The two other members, Commissioners W. F. Libby and Harold S. Vance, are attributed to Strauss' personal selection. They have sided with him on all issues, particularly involving differences with Murray.

The Joint Committee has jurisdiction over appointments to the Commission. That portends more warring with Strauss in the event Murray is dropped. Responsibility for that will be put squarely on Strauss, as will the choice of a successor. As a result, the latter's approval by the committee is certain of protracted consideration.

The bill authorizing the commission's $1,900,000,000 budget is now under deliberation by the committee. That is being done behind closed doors because of the highly classified nature of many of the items.

After Congress votes this authorization measure, the House Appropriations Committee will then go to work on the actual money bill for the Commission.

Rep. Clarence Cannon (D., Mo.), Appropriations chairman, is keeping in close touch with the Joint Committee. Cannon also has long been critical of Strauss, and strongly favors the contemplated curbs on him.

Note: One matter Strauss is slated to be questioned about is that visitors to his office are "covered" by secretly - hidden guns aimed at them. Committeemen have been informed he told that to several callers.

The Once Over —by H. I. Phillips

Workers in at least one industry are demanding that the "coffee break" be written into new contracts . . . The yen for more time to relax from the job marches on ... A few years ago the "coffee break" was unheard of and if you wanted to drop everything and take time out for Java you had to be secretive and fast . . . It developed into a routine, became a habit and may soon bring the picket line . . . Coffee can develop into as important a factor in employer-worker relations as the shorter week, the multiple holiday, and pension rights, even if the workers prefer hot chocolate.

The coffee break is like the seventh-inning stretch, the half-phone conversation, the long wind-up, the missing persons outdoor rally and the sign "Out. Return Soon." It is the world's greatest unscheduel work suspension with cream and sugar.

Once upon a time we thought we could endure staying on the job until the lunch hour and all afternoon until the closing whistle. One thing was sure: the fellow missing from his desk several times during a seven or eight-hour stretch wasn't out for a hot drink. For close to a decade, however, so many workers have been out so often for coffee that it could easily be suspected that Brazil was in conspiracy to cut American production.

The mere mention of coffee has made many an employer see red . . . His great fear is that the staff will develop a similar appetite for tea and ask time out for gypsy tea-leaf reading.

Today coffee is in labor relations discussions, including cup, saucer, spoon, and buttered roll . . . Watch for the banner "Unfair to Java Drinkers." . . . And look for state and Federal arbitrators discussing the coffee pot and its rightful place in industry. (P. S.—Will the arbiters slow up things by insisting on a coffee break like everybody else?)

Ed Sullivan took the cameras off a wild animal act in its most exciting moment to interview members of the audience . . . This showed such disrespect for man-eating beasts that every lion on earth is sore enough at him to go over to the Allen show . . . The spirit of the American sabbath took a pasting from that recent Mike Wallace TV candid interview program and you can still hear cries of "Foul!" from American living rooms . . . The standards of good taste, propriety and respect for the minds of the young were busted as never before when on a Sunday night, a convict famed for years as a hoodlum and killer, got a top spot on the airwaves and was permitted even to attack American police officials by name as sadistic, alcoholics and thieves who will stoop to anything. . . (And this in almost the same breath in which he admitted killing several men and defended it as a self-defense act such as any businessman would take!!!!) If this show wasn't a profanation of the sabbath, an effrontery to the general public and a bid for sensationalism no matter how many minds of teen-agers and muddled adult baddies were warped, name any airwave performance in history than can "make that statement."

Memorial Day Parade To Be Held In Stroudsburgs Thursday

Organizations To Honor War Dead

VETERANS' organizations combine their efforts Thursday morning in a traditional Memorial Day parade in The Stroudsburgs.

The annual observance will open on its customary quiet note with the placement of a wreath at the Legion Monument in East Stroudsburg at 8 a.m. A half-hour later an identical wreath will be lowered to the foot of the Doughboy statute in Stroudsburg's Court House Square.

At each of the two locations there will be a chaplain's prayer, the firing squad will fire three volleys and a bugler will sound "Taps."

All parade units will assemble on Ann St. (in the rear of the YMCA) and Williams St. Units will move out promptly at 9 a.m. from Williams St. to Main St.

The line of march from this point will be as follows: Eastward on Main to Seventh St. where the leading elements of the First Division will halt with colors and grand marshals facing the Doughboy Monument while taps is sounded again.

After this brief ceremony the parade will proceed east on Main St. to the State bridge. Here the column will halt again as flower petals are dropped into the stream, signifying Naval heroes who have been killed in battle. Taps will be sounded again.

Prospect Cemetery

At the conclusion the parade will proceed up Washington St. to S. Courtland to Crystal St. to Brown St. to Prospect St. and into Prospect Cemetery.

The official "line of march" will be the following:

Three cars for honored guests, disabled war veterans, the main speaker (Horatio Haas Jr., commander of the National Society of the 28th Division) and the burgesses of both boroughs, grand marshals, parade co-chairman Earl R. Palmer, the commanders of the VFW, 28th Division, American Legion, Marine Corps Reserve, Marine Corps League and the chaplain.

THE LONG WAY HOME—Putting the younger generation in the shade Saturday H. O. Brodt, Mount Bethel, an alumnus of East Stroudsburg Normal School, class of 1896, walked nearly five miles to catch a bus. He was headed for his class reunion at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College; made it in fine style, even though he's 90 years old, nearly 91. With Brodt in photo are Miss Genevieve Zimbar, standing, acting head of Health Education Department and Miss Amanda Angle, who accompanied the elderly man.

Mount Bethel Man Walks Five Miles To Reunion Of Class

A MOUNT Bethel man who is 90 years old and "going on 91" walked nearly five miles to catch a bus to attend the 61st reunion of his East Stroudsburg State Teachers College class Saturday.

H. O. Brodt is still "hale and hearty" even though he's nearing the century mark.

On Teachers College campus Saturday he was the "star attraction", college officials said. Brodt was the oldest alumnus attending the annual reunion day program, the only member of the 1896 class which was the oldest class represented on the campus at the reunion.

Saturday morning the elderly man took off from his home near Mount Bethel and walked all the way to Portland along the highway. At the Portland intersection he waited for and eventually boarded a bus headed for East Stroudsburg.

Third Group

The class of 1896 was the third group to be graduated from the Normal School in East Stroudsburg—predecessor of the present Teachers College.

At that time teachers were prepared only for elementary-grades instruction. Brodt went on to teach in public schools for 36 years before he left education for other fields.

Dr. Francis B. McGarry, dean of instruction at the college, said that Brodt's appearance was "certainly a highlight of a generally successful reunion day." Dr. McGarry estimated that 300 persons attended the program.

The class of 1912 had the best representation, he said. There were 74 persons from that class at the reunion dinner. Nearly all early classes were represented well, Dr. McGarry said.

Father Jordan Honored At Pocono Manor

POCONO MANOR — Father Jordan, pastor of St. Ann's Church and mission at Tobyhanna, was honored for 25 years of service to the priesthood yesterday. The Silver Jubilee, held here at Pocono Manor Inn, was attended by 250 guests.

Father Jordan, who is an enthusiastic member of the community's civic organizations, was ordained on May 21, 1932. He has served at St. Mary's of the Mount Church, Mt. Pocono; St. Vincent's Church, Plymouth; St. Mary's of Mount Carmel, Dunmore; and St. Anthony's Church, Stowell, before being appointed as pastor of the St. Ann's Church in 1951.

A Scranton man originally, Father Jordan was born in 1904, son of Daniel J. and the late Mrs. Elizabeth McMullen Jordan. (His father was one of the honored guests at yesterday's dinner.) After graduation from St. Thomas College in 1927, he entered St. Bonaventure's Seminary.

Prior to the dinner, a solemn high mass was held at 12 noon at St. Ann's. The deacon was Rev. Ray Mulligan of Shohola, Pa., and Rev. Carl Cummings, Nicholson, was the sub-deacon.

Rev. John Lawler, also of St. Ann's, was the master of ceremonies at the dinner. He was assisted by Rev. William Fontenill, the assistant Chancellor of the Cathedral, Diocese of Scranton. The Very Rev. James Collins, CSSR, of the San Alfonzo Retreat Home, Long Branch, N. J., was the preacher.

Among the visitors were Father Andrew Maloney, pastor of St. Mary's of North Pittston, and Father Aloyisous Boylan, Holy Name Church, Swoyersville.

In addition to his position as the pastor of the parish which includes St. Rita's Mission, Gouldsboro; St. Mary Magdalen's Mission, South Sterling; and Our Lady of the Lake Mission, Pocono Pines, Father Jordan has been an active member of the Tobyhanna Civic League and the Tobyhanna Community Council.

After the dinner, a reception was held at St. Ann's which members of all faiths attended.

Stroudsburg Eagles Better 1,700 Mark In Memberships

TOTAL MEMBERSHIP in Stroudsburg Aerie 1106, Fraternal Order of Eagles, reached 1,700 yesterday when a class of 16 candidates was initiated at a Mother's Day ceremony.

A telegram was read from Maurice Splain, state secretary, congratulating the lodge for exceeding its annual membership quota. Including yesterday, Stroudsburg Aerie initiated 107 members in the past year against a quota of 96, according to Ernest Ridgeway, membership chairman.

Fred Bachelor's team, with 37 candidates, was announced as winner of the membership contest. High individual producer was Clair Learn with 22 enrolled.

Past Presidents

Past presidents filled the chairs during the initiation ceremony. George Price served as past president; Sam Driebe, president; Walter Koszot, vice president; George Mackey, chaplain; Wade Butz, conductor; Al Ruster, inside guard; Harvey Hay, outside guard.

They were escorted to the platform by John Leathers and the color guard. Frank Forrie was in charge of the music and oratory.

Principal speaker was Joseph Gibson, state inside guard and secretary of the Scranton lodge. Guests who spoke briefly were Herbert Werley, of Kutztown, District 11 president, and Morgan Kemmerer, of Lehighton.

The regular officers headed by Truman Burnett as president conducted the business meeting. The next regular meeting will be held Tuesday night, June 4.

Police Seek Man's Identity

SHICKSHINNY, May 26 (AP) — Police sought today to establish the identity of a man whose badly decomposed body was found yesterday in north branch waters of the Susquehanna River near here.

The man was described as about 35 years old, five feet-five inches tall, gray and balding. The body was fully clothed—including five pairs of socks and two pairs of pants.

Fuses Found At Scene Of Forest Fires

SEVERAL railroad fuses have been uncovered at the points where brush fires were started a short time ago.

Research Forester E. F. McNamara made this disclosure over the weekend, thereby giving weight to the continued belief that arsonists set many of the fires which destroyed thousands of acres in the Effort Mountain area.

"When 12 separate fires are set in sequence before daylight," remarked McNamara, "that isn't any accident."

Investigation

Therefore, investigators have been quietly—but relentlessly—working to locate the individuals who set the forest fires.

"We found fusees in the hope to have the investigation entirely cleared up within a few weeks," McNamara said.

"We found fuseeos in the woods," he continued. "Very often evidence is hard to discover because it is burned with the fires.

"But there wasn't any mistaking these fusees," he added.

Vets Honor Gold Star Mothers

THOMAS P. LAMBERT Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, held its annual meeting in honor of Gold Star Mothers and deceased veterans yesterday.

Elmer D. Christine delivered the main address. Guests of honor were Gold Star Mothers from the Monroe County area.

Post officers and members who took part in yesterday's service were Commander Fred Feiler Sr., Vice Commander Harvey Possinger, Past Post Commander Forrest Haney, Chaplain Andrew Mery, and Ethel Dickisson, president of the Ladies Auxiliary.

Capt. Charles Baker of the Salvation Army gave the invocation and benediction. Ernest Michelfelder was the organist.

An honor guard, consisting of Sgt. Charles Jenkenson, Pfcs. Otto and Tanner and Pvt. Counterman, was furnished by Co. G.

Golden Deeds Award Banquet Set Tonight

TONIGHT at Mountain Lake House, Marshalls Creek, East Stroudsburg Exchange Club will present its annual Golden Deeds Award.

This year's award goes to a group of Monroe County women whose actions have been relatively unsung in the community—the Gray Ladies branch of the local American Red Cross.

Working constantly at General Hospital, the Gray Ladies annually devote thousands of hours of their time toward making the hospitalization of all patients more cheerful and happy.

Duties

Their duties at the hospital are quiet, unspectacular and more important than anyone—except hospital patients—realizes.

Tonight's award presentation marks the first time that Exchange Club members have given their coveted award to a group instead of an individual. The award is presented each year to the person or persons who have made the greatest contribution to community life and welfare over a period of years in the judgment of the local club and the National Exchange.

Trailers Ideal For Fishing Trip

TROT OFF to your favorite fishing spot next weekend in a Trotwood Travel Trailer.

For vacations, for fun, for pure pleasure, these compact, little travel trailers are your "magic carpet" to the playground and scenic spots of the country.

You can see the brand new Trotwood trailer at Van D. Yetter's, mobile home dealer, Route 402, near Marshalls Creek.

Yetter invites you to look them over. You'll readily see that Trotwood trailers are uniquely designed to make every square foot livable and practical.

Companion

These trailers make the perfect traveling companion — they go everywhere you and your car go!

The remarkable ease of handling and safety in towing a Trotwood Travel Trailer over any kind of road, is due to Trodwood's exclusive "Step Action" independent wheel suspension. It permits each wheel to operate entirely independent of the other. The result is an ideal "floating ride" with a total absence of the usual pitch and sway found in conventional types of wheel suspension.

The Trotwood Dinette, with its cushioned seats, easily and quickly converts to a full length bed when not in use for dining. Twin beds or Hollywood bed are standard in the Sun Chaser model and overhead bunk beds are available for all models as optional equipment.

Light Color Is Obtained

NOW YOU can make dark furniture light without removing the old finish. And you can easily do the job yourself.

That's right! No scraping, no sanding, no need to remove the old finish.

How do you do this?

It's all done with an amazing new product—A-C-M Plastic Finish Paint —sold in this area by the Pocono Paint-Up Center, 722 Main St., Stroudsburg.

Easy To Use

A-C-M is very easy to use. You don't need any experience to get beautiful, richly grained effects over your old dark walnut and mahogany furniture.

You have a choice of swedish maple, limed oak, bleached mahogany, platinum blond, blond mahogany.

See A-C-M plastic finish paint demonstrated at the Pocono Paint-Up Center.

Soap Saves Paint

OUTSIDE painted walls that are dingy and discolored don't always need repainting. Washing with soap and water often can restore their freshness. Use a scrub brush on a small area to check the results of washing. If you're satisfied start at the bottom and work your way up. After washing rinse with clear water, using a hose.

Special Oil Settles Dust

THERE'S A quick cure for that swirling dust around your property.

Call Shiffer's Bituminous Service (ph. 4019) and ask to have your parking area or dirt road treated with an application of special dust oil.

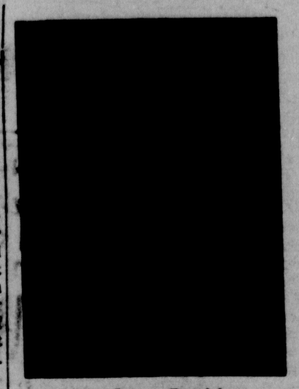

The job can be done quickly and economically and it will put an end to that dust problem in a hurry.

House Paint Improves Rugs

THE FIBER rugs used on porch floors frequently become faded and drab-looking. These can be greatly improved and given new color with the aid of regular house paint, thinned with turpentine. Use about half of each.

It's advisable, naturally, to do the painting on a flat area on the lawn, but if this is not possible, you can work on the porch. Just be sure to place several layers of newspaper beneath the rug before you begin.

New Heater Developed By Firm

IF YOU'RE a motel or cabin owner, or if you're planning to build, this is for you!

The H. C. Archibald Company, 406 Main St., has just received a revolutionary new type of gas heating unit from the Stewart-Warner Company. Known as the Saf-Aire wall heater, it is 'safety-sealed, needs no chimney, ducts or electricity and can be used in one room or the entire home.

What makes this wall heater different is this:

Saf-Aire burns any type of gas heating fuel in a sealed chamber. Sealed vents through the wall supply outside air for combustion and discharge products of combustion directly outdoors. Fire and its end products are separated completely from the room air you breathe.

Since there is no open flame and all controls are sealed, there is no danger of burning out the oxygen in the room and the danger of gas fumes is eliminated.

And since no electricity is needed, you have no worry about lack or absence of heat due to power failures.

This new Saf-Aire wall heater has already proven itself efficient and economical in test areas throughout the county.

Stop in at the H. C. Archibald Company showroom and see it demonstrated.

Color Caulking

A PHILADELPHIA manufacturer has developed a new line of caulking compounds in 28 different colors and shades to match or contrast with colors of windows and doors.

Women Spark Revolution In Paint Business

NOT SO many years ago, "redecorating" meant re-doing the interior of the home. Today the word also applies to repainting the exterior.

That's how Jim Detrick, manager of the Sherwin-Williams branch at 517 Main St., explains what he calls the "feminine influence" on home painting in this area.

"Back in the days when woman's place was in the home, she confined her flair for color to the rooms in which she spent so much time," he observed. "But nowadays she pays just as much attention to the outside of the house."

To illustrate the effect this is having, Detrick cited the growing use of color on home exteriors.

The Lady Insists

"Whenever a family discusses exterior painting, it is almost always the lady of the house who insists on color. And she wants gay, bright color that "does something" for the house—and for her!" he said.

As an example of the color ideas the distaff side is pursuing, he pointed to the lively colors now adorning doors, flower boxes and garden furniture, trellises and other back-yard paraphenalia.

Detrick confessed that his sympathies are all with the ladies.

"No mere male can argue against the soundness of their thinking," he believes. "There's nothing like a gay fillip of color to give any property individuality. And when colors are chosen with some consideration for those the neighbors are using, the overall effect can work wonders for the neighborhood."

Meeting these color demands is not always a simple task, the local businessman admitted. But he hastened to add that the paint industry has kept pace with them.

"Only a few years ago," he explained, "the number of colors available in exterior house paint was quite limited. Today, the range of shades is expansive. Sherwin-Williams, for example, offers 91 exterior house paint colors —more than five times as many as were available just five years ago.

"But it isn't only in the number of colors that progress has been made. Today's colors are much more durable than yesterday's. And they are available in paints that cover just about every type of surface, including clapboard, brick, stucco, concrete, masonry, shakes and shingles.

"What it amounts to is a revolution in house paint—a revolution inspired by women!"

Modernize Heat Plant

MODERNIZATION of the heating system is the answer to sluggish heat, higher than normal fuel bills, and uneven heat distribution, Robert H. Collins, manager of D. Katz & Sons Plumbing & Heating Dept., points out.

It is during the summer months that the overhauling of the home heating plant can be carried on with the minimum of interference with family routine.

Hundreds of home heating plants, Mr. Collins points out, are still limping along with systems originally made for solid fuel. The entire system can be given a lift by a new unit designed especially for modern fuels.

Fuel economy, more room, and better appearance to say nothing of better heating will result from this change, Mr. Collins adds.

Revolutionary changes have been made in heat distributors. Available for replacing old-style radiators are inconspicuous baseboards which provide a high degree of comfort by heating the lower part of the room and blanketing outside walls with a curtain of warmth.

Also available are streamlined convectors with attractive modern lines which can be installed free-standing or recessed.

The difficulties which householders have with many heating systems can be corrected by better thermostatic control.

If you desire a free estimate on repair or replacement of your present heating system, call D. Katz & Sons plumbing and heating division (2369).

Once upon a time...

That's the way most good stories start. Our story is no different in that respect.

It all began 100 years ago . . . in the days of young Abe Lincoln. The seeds of Civil War were just beginning to sprout . . . automobiles, telephones and all the other wonderful things we have today were still a long way off. It was in this setting —in 1857—that First-Stroudsburg began serving the people of this area. Next week we will celebrate our 100th Anniversary . . . the end of one century and the beginning of another. Proud of its service, its history and its growth, First-Stroudsburg looks not back but forward to the birth of a new century of service to you and the region as a whole.

All personnel of First-Stroudsburg—Directors, Officers and Employes —cordially invite you join them in the 100th Anniversary Celebration next week. It marks the close of a proud century and beginning of a new one, which First-Stroudsburg expectantly awaits with an assurance that it will be truly THE Century of Progress in friendly, efficient banking and trust service to its customers.

1 FIRST since 1857

This is how First-Stroudsburg National Bank looked 100 years ago. The bank still stands on the same location, at the corner of Main and Seventh Sts. Many changes in size and general appearance have been made through the years. Two years ago the bank interior was entirely remodeled again and central air conditioning was installed. The sketch above was done by Edwin Motts.

A NEW SURPRISE EVERY DAY

Dr. Price Former School Teacher

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the first in a series of articles to be written by Leonard Randolph on the life of Dr. Nina Price. The series will appear periodically during the next week.

By Leonard Randolph

MONROE COUNTY doctors, nurses and other citizens gathered last week to lavish their love and respect on Dr. Nina Price.

Yet there wasn't one person in the 100 in the ballroom of the Penn-Stroud Hotel who felt that he could give a hundredth the devotion Dr. Nina has spent on her patients as individuals during each day of her 50 years in medicine.

What has there been in Nina Price's life to make her the humanitarian she is?

There is, of course, no single answer to that question. Like all other human beings she is a product of the world in which she has lived to some degree.

Like some other human beings she has learned to live almost completely beyond herself, reaching out in all directions when and where she is needed.

Unlike most "humanitarians" she has never ceased being (1) a very feminine woman, (2) a loving, dedicated mother and (3) a light-hearted creature with a notable ability to see the humorous side of nearly all situations.

Nina Mae Case was born Nov. 30, 1882 in Ithaca, Mich. Her father — who bore the learned first and middle names of Marcus Aurelius and the last name Case—was an engineer.

Nina was the next-to-youngest of nine children in the Case family. Her mother, Harriet Helms Case, was a former schoolma'am, an occupation which, in those years, carried with it the requirements of strong scholarly background in a wide variety of fields and an ability to turn your hand to rigid discipline.

Perhaps because of this, Nina and the rest of the Case children came through their early years with their mother as a dominant force. It was less strong in Ithaca, but when Nina was six she moved with her family to the high mountain regions near Williamsport.

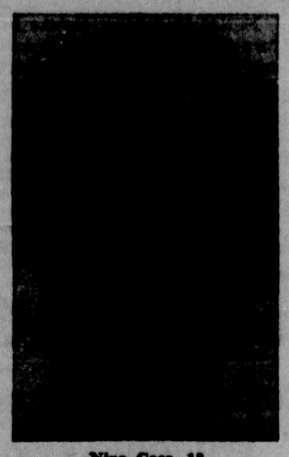

In 1888 the hills behind Williamsport were unusually isolated. The Case family became a self-contained, highly independent unit whose borders included the world through books and teaching but seldom extended beyon the home itself.

This isolation cut the Cases off from formal education — they lived too far from town to attend a public school. The teaching, therefore, was handled entirely by Harriet, their mother.

Even though it was "home" education, the Case family "schoolroom" never exuded the flavor of private tuotoring. Nine children, after all, could match most of the "classes" in a country school of the day and the teaching was anything but monotonous.

Harriet Helms Case had "strong convictions" on education, one of her granddaughters who had occasion to come under her "tutelage" later recalls. She drummed the material of books into her children's heads with firmness and a hard-working approach which had a lasting effect.

After six years of education from her mother, Nina was taken into Williamsport for enrollment in the school there. The family knew she had been quick to learn and that she had a mind with amazing retentive powers. But this hardly prepared them for the shock they got from school officials.

Nina finished the tests given her by teachers at the school, answered oral questions, talked with the educators. When it was all over, the school principal said that Nina could enter the school right away.

She was, right now, he said, a student with the formal standing of a senior in high school. At 12, Nina was starting her last year of school—without ever having set foot in a schoolroom.

Nina Mae Case was graduated from Williamsport's public school at the age of 13.

From high school she went on to attend Battle Creek College in Michigan. She spent two years there. College officials informed her at the end of her second year that she was "too young to graduate from college." Nina promptly quit the college campus and accepted a job as a teacher for one year in Bell Harbor, Michigan. She moved to California the next year to teach in Eureka schools.

By that time she was "old enough" to graduate from college. She accomplished this feat of formal education at St. Heilsburg College in California.

It was during the earliest years of her life that Nina had made up her mind she wanted to be a doctor. The school-teaching was a means to an end.

An incident shortly after the Case family moved to Pennsylvania helped set the child's mind on medicine as her goal in life. The community into which they moved had previously felt the stamp of Nina's grandmother's life and personality.

Grandmother Helms had been a "humanitarian", too. Nina heard little about her work in the community until one day in the early Summer she was taken for a ride in a horse and buggy rig by an older man who had known the Helms family for a long time.

As she recalls the incident now, her chauffeur was a friendly, reminiscent-minded man who served as a semi-historian for the countryside. When the buggy passed a small, mountain graveyard, the older man pointed to it and asked Nina:

"D'you see that tiny graveyard there? Well, d'you know why it's so small?"

Nina said she didn't.

"Well, little girl, it's because of your grandmother. We had a lot of sickness here during past years and we didn't have any doctors. It was your Grandmother Helms that kept us alive and it's her we have to thank that 90 out of a hundred of us aren't layin' there right now."

That incident—a brief, sharp fragment out of childhood—made an obviously lasting impression on Nina's mind and her dreams. It it can be said that one moment in a human life decides a whole lifetime, it would seem apparent that Nina's destiny was set down by the sight of a sparsely-populated cemetery in a child's eyes.

The dream did not diminish. It stayed with her in her own home and it traveled with her into the classrooms and the colleges.

It began to take its final steps toward reality when she came back East from California.

Nina entered medical training at Northwestern University in Illinois. It was a day of promise and fulfillment for the young girl.

But the early 1900's were narrow in their philosophies about women. Northwestern was no exception.

Nina Case found herself confronted with a solid wall of implacable and ill-disguised dislike for "her medics." Women were given the chance to study and work; they could "assist" and do some of the dirty work — but "practical experience" for women doctors was unheard of.

Nina hitched her pride up a notch or two, packed her textbooks and her determination. There was only one thing to do: find a college designed solely for the education of women doctors.

The school was Woman's Medical College in Philadelphia.

The girl whose grandmother had helped save most of a whole community from death was determined to turn her life and energies the same way.

Nothing — and that included masculine myopia—was going to kill that dream.

Disarmament Talks Today

WASHINGTON, May 26 (AP)—Another high level disarmament conference will be held at the White House tomorrow, presumably to put the finishing touches on a new proposal to be made to Russia.

President Eisenhower set the meeting for 9 a.m. EDT and asked some of his leading advisers to be present.

Names

These include Harold E. Stassen, his disarmament aide; Secretary of State Dulles, Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; Lewis Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission; Donald Quarles, deputy secretary of defense, and Robert Cutler, presidential aide on national security matters.

Stassen leaves for London at noon Sunday for the resumption of arms limitation talks with representatives of the Soviet Union, Canada, Great Britain and France. The London talks had been going on for nine weeks before the present recess.

It is reliably reported that Stassen will take with him an American proposal for an international treaty which would bind countries not now possessing atomic-nuclear weapons not to make them or seek to acquire them in any way. The United States, Britain and Russia are the only nations now possessing atomic and H-bombs.

Details of the proposal are still secret, but it is understood to include a "small" reduction in East-West weapons, manpower and defense spending, along with creation of specified areas which would be opened to aerial inspection.

Weapons discarded by each nation, it is reported, would be sent to disarmament depots under the control of the United Nations.

Disarmament problems were discussed by the President and the National Security Council at a two-hour meeting yesterday.

There was another secret meeting at the State Department today, in which Vice President Nixon and Allen Dulles, chief of the Central Intelligence Agency, participated.

AFTER 50 years, school spirit still runs high for members of the class of 1907 of Stroudsburg High School.

At a reunion luncheon on Saturday afternoon, members of the class presented the gift of $1000, to be placed in trust, with the interest to be presented each year in the name of the class of 1907 to the graduating student with the highest academic standing. This is the second gift of the class to the school since it previously presented the flag pole now in use at the new high school.

The class of 1907, which included six boys and six girls, had as its high school the corner room on the school on the hill with Will Ramsey as the principal. There were at that time about 40 students in the high school all together.

Graduation

Graduation exercises were held in the court house and they held the distinction of being the first class to graduate in caps and gowns. Five of 12 members were graduated from the commercial course, first instituted in the high school in 1903.

At the luncheon held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stackhouse, Bryant St., the full commencement program was relived including the commencement address by Allan Bensinger, now a Philadelphia lawyer. Delivered at the time that the Panama Canal was being built, the Bensinger's oration deplored the "terrifically high cost" of the project, running to 175 million dollars, a sum which today seems small in governmental spending, as members pointed out.

The alumni essay, delivered at their commencement by Emma Shay of the class of 1903, was also read.

Of the class of 12, eight members are still living with the equal proportion being maintained, with four men and four women. Seven of those members were here for the reunion, shown above. Mrs. Mabel Warner Griffiths of Annapolis was unable to attend.

ESSTC To Confer Degrees On 129 Graduates This Morning

EAST STROUDSBURG State Teachers College will confer degrees on 129 seniors this morning at 10 in the campus auditorium.

Main speaker at the traditional commencement exercise—the 64th of its kind held at the local college—will be Major Rex S. Morgan, a career U.S. Army officer who has established a wide reputation as "humorist, raconteur and star athlete."

Major Morgan's topic for the morning will be "The Time To Read the Stars." He is assistant professor of military science and tactics in the Reserve Officers Training Corps at Cornell University, a post he has held since 1954.

This morning's commencement will open with the procession of degree candidates into the auditorium. Rev. Harold C. Eaton will give the invocation. The college chorus, directed by Wilfred E. Cielland, will then sing "Send Forth Thy Spirit".

Following Morgan's address degree candidates will be introduced by Dr. Francis B. McGarry, dean of instruction. Degrees will be conferred by Dr. LeRoy J. Koehler, president of the college.

The chorus will be heard in two other selections: "Father Most Holy" and "Go Down, Moses." Rev. Eaton will give the benediction.

Assisting in the service was Rev. John A. Bollier, pastor of Stroudsburg First Presbyterian Church, who gave the invocation and benediction. The college chorus also took part.

Senior Class Donates Funds For Bicycle Unit At ESSTC

SENIOR CLASS members at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College voted this weekend to donate funds for establishment of a bicycle unit on campus.

Class members set aside their $650 departing gift for the purchase of English bicycles, racks and other necessary equipment for the unit.

The unit should be ready to operate on the college campus in the Fall. Students have suggested that it be called Shane MacCarthy Bicycle Unit 1.

Basic idea for the gift came from a recent address on campus by Dr. Shane MacCarthy, executive director of President Eisenhower's Council On Youth Fitness. MacCarthy recommended cycling as a valuable form of exercise and drew attention to the fact that few colleges in the nation actually make use of space which could be utilized for that purpose.

Promoting Idea

Shortly after the MacCarthy address a graduating senior, Joyce Fuhrman of Hanover, began promoting the idea of a class contribution to help start a bicycle unit.

Genevieve Zimbar, adviser to the Youth Fitness Committee on campus and acting head of the Health Education Department, said last night that details of the project will be worked out this Summer by Miss Fuhrman, John Powers, class president and Miss Zimbar.

If all goes well, Miss Zimbar said, the unit should be ready to be put in operation this Fall.

House Aims At Voting Change

HARRISBURG, May 26 (AP)—The House today approved a plan aimed at ultimately changing the State Constitution to reduce the legal voting age from 21 to 18.

The measure, already passed unanimously by the Senate, was endorsed 159-1 by the House. The sole dissenting vote was cast by Rep. Davis (R—Forest).

If approved again by the 1959 Legislature, it would then go before the voters in a statewide referendum.

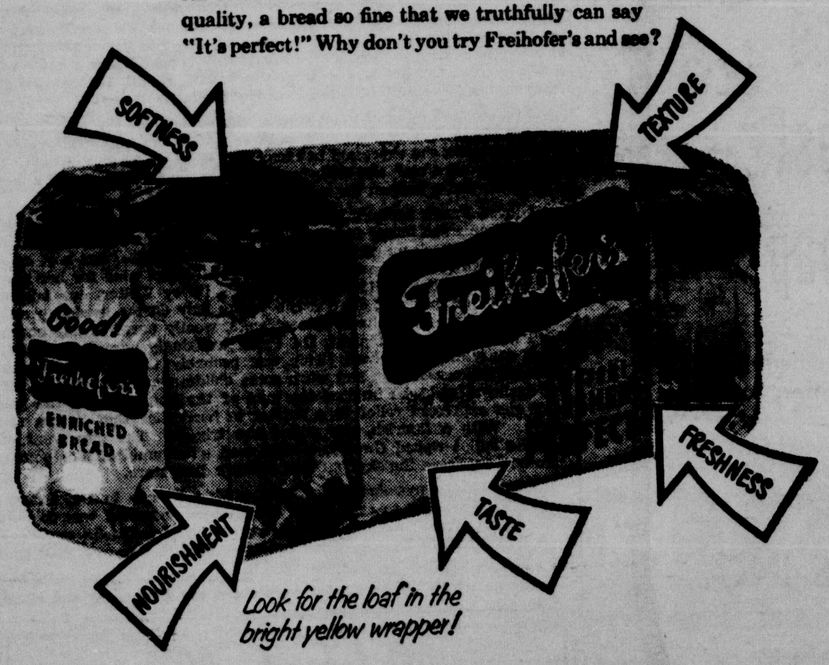

The action highlighted a routine House session that saw 26 pieces of legislation passed without debate.

Miss Jane Ifft Is Bride Of William G. Humphreys Here

The wedding of Miss Jane Louise Ifft, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Ifft of 721 Brown St., Stroudsburg, and William Griffith Humphreys, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Humphreys of 118 East Providence Road, Aldan, Pa., was a highlight of Saturday afternoon.

The Rev. John Bollier performed the cremony at 2:30 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church, Stroudsburg. Bouquets of daisies, snapdragons and cornflowers, against banks of greens, flanked the altar. Numa Snyder was organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina length gown of white silk shantung. The Sabrina neckline was outlined with silk appliques and accented with iridescent sequins. Her fingertip veil of French illusion fell from a headpiece covered with rosettes of net and seed pearls. She wore pearl earrings, a gift of the bridegroom, and carried a white testament with a white orchid.

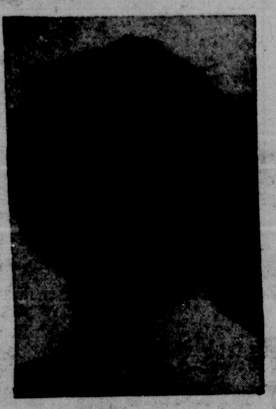

Mrs. Robert Dennis, of Drexel Hill, the former Sue Gordon of Stroudsburg, was matron of honor. Miss Vivian Peterson of Mercer was bridesmaid. They both wore dresses of blue crystalette with clips of blue net for their hair. They carried cascade bouquets of daisies and cornflowers.

Robert Dennis of Drexel Hill was best man. James Ifft, brother of the bride, of Stroudsburg, and John Humphreys, brother of the bridegroom, of Caldwell, N.J., were ushers. Jerry Ifft, another brother of the bride, ushered his mother to her place.

The bride's mother wore a dress of gray silk shantung with a pink picture hat and gloves and a corsage of pink roses. The bridegroom's mother wore a dress of beige lace with a beige chiffon hat trimmed with green and white. White accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

A reception for 75 guests, including relatives and out-of-town friends, at the home of the bride. Leaving for their wedding trip, the bride wore a champagne silk suit with beige and gold accessories.

After they return from a wedding trip to Miami, Fla., Mr. and Mrs. Humphreys will be at home at the How-Mar Apartments, Providence Road, Secane, Pa. The bride, a graduate of Stroudsburg High School and Pennsylvania State University, before her marriage was extension home economist for Indiana County, Pa. Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

For once a big weekend and good weather coincided and everybody seemed to be taking full advantage of it. Saturday was a perfect day for the weddings, and we had them.

The rice from Jane Ifft's wedding.. was.. still.. carpeting.. Main Street like snow yesterday in front of the church... Couldn't help thinking how convenient it is for a bride to have three brothers. One for an usher, one for feeding the parking meters for the guests, and an extra one who can be detailed to escort the mother of the bride to her place.

Next best thing to having a lot of brothers is to have the bridegroom just graduating from college so that he has all his classmates to call upon for wedding tasks as Frances Mooney had for her wedding on Saturday.

Not brothers but husbands were very much in demand at the Junior Woman's Club banquet and dance on Saturday night. There's one club where the husbands are still young enough to regard dancing as a pleasure and not as a chore.

Though judging by all the reunion stories of high school and college, age is not necessarily a factor in how much fun a group can have. As a matter of fact the older the class, the more members they seem to get out and the more enthusiastic they are.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

"God must have loved the Prices, he gave us so many of them," Frank S. LaBar remarked last Thursday evening when more than 100 persons gathered at the Penn-Stroud hotel to honor Dr. Nina Mae Price. Certainly he was right . . . there were Prices to the right and left of him, and a long table of Prices ahead of him . . . but, attractive as all of them were, there was no doubt in the mind of anyone that the Belle of the Ball was bright-eyed, fresh-skinned Dr. Nina, beaming merrily from under a veritable rose garden of a hat.

I respect Dr. Price not only for the years which she has devoted so unstintingly to a needy world, but for her ability to win and hold friends, and the limitless source of energy which permits her to not only join clubs, but actually serve on endless committees for worthy humanitarian projects. I have known her a long, long time. When I was a child, she was, in my eyes, simply the mother of my classmate and friend, Shirley Baierle. More recently she has been an associate in the Business and Professional Women's Club . . . my personal dispenser of pills and good sound advice.

Through the years I have come to know that Nina Price's life hasn't been a bed of roses. When I've been rearly at rope's end with worries of my own, she has consoled me. "I know," she has said quietly, "I know just how you must feel . . . but oh, Madalyn, don't ever forget that life is wonderful. There's always tomorrow . . . and tomorrow we look back and wonder why we were so worried today. It doesn't seem possible now, perhaps—but there are always compensations."

Sometimes she has spoken of things that worried her years ago, and problems she has faced. While listening I have studied the smooth contour of her face, lined only where it has been so frequently crinkled by smiles and laughter . . . I have observed too, how calmly blue her eyes are. I have wondered then about the proverbial fountain of youth that keeps Dr. Price so refreshingly young as she literally romps her way through the seventies. This I know—she has faith in God . . . faith in herself and faith in human beings. If the last receives an occasional jolt, as it must with us all, she rides the tide with the others, and eventually she can laugh away her disappointments. This is a wonderful quality; a miraculous beauty treatment for both body and soul.

There's a funny side to Dr. Price's personality that's just as endearing to those who know her as is her free-handed outpouring of affection and medical care for those in need. It's slightly incongruous at times to walk into her office for a few pills, and find her relaxing after an emergency call in a pair of well-broken-in houseslippers, a robe, and flowered hat. Dr. Price in a surgical garment, is still, ten to one, Dr. Price with a "bouquet" of flowers on her head.

The other evening at her surprise testimonial was the only time in our friendship I have heard Nina Price admit she was "flusticated." With a twinkle, she expressed her fear that it all might be a dream. "I just might wake up," she said, "and discover that I'm wearing a hospital gown and a bedpan for a hat."

I loved Frank LaBar's reminiscing about the days when Dr. Price deserted horse and buggy for an old Model T. "It was four years before she learned to back up and turn around," he revealed. "But boy, could she go AHEAD—and she did, everywhere there was need for her prasence." When Olive Williams' grandfather, Dorey Welter, our beloved police chief of that era, decided the young lady doctor needed protection if she were to gallivant into strange, woolly parts of our county at all hours of day and night, Dr. Price grudgingly agreed to carry a police department revolver. This was probably the most harrowing phase of her career . . . and when some children got into the doctor's bag during a call, she insisted the man of the house unload the gun. Later she expressed relief to a patient in her office that it was now empty. With a flourish, she pulled the trigger. The gun went off . . . the bullet ripped through a wall, and pills tumbled, like pennies from heaven, down the skylight into LeBar's drug store.

After Friday morning's broadcast, paying tribute to Dr. Price, I was given a number to call. The woman who answered was sobbing. "I was eating breakfast when I heard your broadcast," she explained, "and I just had to let you know how beautiful it was and how true. Dr. Price is a wonderful woman!"

Anyone who wishes may, for my money, say that again and again!

Stroudsburg Little League Opens New Campaign

OFF THE RECORD

Swimming Wrestling Tennis Football Basketball Baseball

By Bob Clark
Sports Editor

THE LATEST rendition of the "battle of the boroughs" is history, and for the records East Stroudsburg High owns a 2-1 victory over Stroudsburg. The facts of the case are almost as simple as the final score. The Cavaliers' Curt Hickman got the better of the Mountaineers' Jimmy Snyder in the mound duel, and Johnny Hindman's hump-backed single scored Bob Kassner with what proved to be the winning run in the fifth inning.

No one can deny, however, that the tilt was one of the prettiest and best games to watch. Except for a few mental lapses—and they make these in the majors too—both teams were as flawless in the field as the ideal groundskeeper.

The pitching on both sides was something to behold, and the hitting—for the most part—came from the boys who were not exactly tearing the cover off the ball during the regular season.

It was an ideal lid-closer for both fines, although the loser, naturally, took it a little harder than the winner.

But the fans, no matter how hard they were rooting for their favorites, all seemed to give out with the same feeling, "It was the finest ball game anyone would like to see."

Chet Gross, and Dick Wolslayer Sr., hardy backers of Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg respectively, probably are two excellent examples of how the diehards at each school felt.

Said Gross, who has a son, Tom, holding down a pitchers position of the Mountaineers hill staff, "Certainly I wanted to see the Jerry Stulgaitis team win, but there is no denying that tilt was a picture to behold. Too bad, Stroudsburg couldn't have been on the other end of that score."

Wolslayer, father of Dick Jr. player who is a catcher-outfielder on the Jack Kist-tutored nine, remarked, "Naturally, I was rooting for Eastburg, and I was more than pleased with the final result. It was a whale of a game. One of the finest exhibitions by two schoolboys teams, these eyes have seen in quite a spell."

We'll go along with the remarks of both of these men and say they speak for a majority of the people (500 or more) who witnessed the diamond version of the "battle of the boroughs". It was truly a picture to behold and certainly one of the finest exhibitions of two scholastic nines viewed in some time.

The game produced an ideal setup for John Whitehead, Stroudsburg's High football coach. Whitehead who served as the game's official scorer because it was the Mountaineers home game, did not have one play in which doubt on whether to give a batter a hit or a fielder an error. The closest to a miscue was an error of omission situation when three Mountaineers got their signals crossed and let a pop fly hit by Hickman fall between them for a had-to-give single. However, Hickman's safety did not figure in the scoring.

The fielding gems were divided among the two rivals. Eastburg's co-captain and leftfielder Frank Lupin provided two of the thrills when he twice went back deep in left field to corral two high drives off the bats of Snyder and Mountaineer second baseman Ron Stopp. On Stopp's attempted blast to the seats, Lupin had his back to the bleachers and reached above his head to pluck off the drive.

Stroudsburg's Charley Cramsey, also a leftfielder, got a good round of applause when he pulled in Helmut Gartner's hoist and fired a perfect strike to first base to double off Corky Smith who had walked and ran on the fly to Cramsey's territory.

And of course you can't overlook Hickman's start of the double play in the first inning which got the lean lefthander out of a big jam and opened the door to his stellar pitching performance. The Bushkill resident pounced off the mound on a Charley Cramsey smash to the box—the bases were loaded at the time— threw to home plate to get Barry Tretheway on a force. Eastburg catcher Bob Herman, in turn fired to first to double Cramsey. Two big outs which eventually proved to shut the door on the Mountaineers for the rest of the night.

No matter how you look at it, the game is history, but from this vantage point, a nicer one couldn't have been put among the records of victorious East Stroudsburg High or vanquished Stroudsburg.

IBW Drills Today

Security Trust, VFW, Wyckoff's Win Inaugurals

WYCKOFF-SEARS, Security Trust and VFW posted victories as the Stroudsburg Little League opened its 1957 campaign yesterday at Little League Park. W-S defeated First National Bank, 3-1, Security downed Stout's Glass Works, 1-0 in an extra inning, and Veteran of Foreign Wars edged Penn-Stroud Hotel, 3-2.

A parade led by elements of the Stroudsburg High Band, LL officials from the Penn-Stroud Hotel to the park proceeded the actual opening. At the park, flag-raising ceremonies inaugurated the '57 season.

Burgess Hal Harris of Stroudsburg officially got the campaign under way by tossing out the first ball.

Bond Wins

Wyckoff's scored a run each in the fifth and sixth frames to take the measure of the Bankers. Bond went all the way to pick up the mound win for W-S, while Chaplin, who also went the distance, took the loss. W-S' Frantz was the game's top hitter with 2-for-2.

Messler tallied the winning run for Security Trust in the seventh frame — overtime — which downed Stout's. Nevil, who followed Messler to the hill, received credit for the win. Osborn, in relief of Canfield, absorbed the loss. Kintz, of the winners, got the tilt's big blow, a double.

Lead Holds Up

The Vets scored in the middle frames and their three-run outburst held up for its win over Penn-Stroud. Bisbing gained the pitching win, while Grover, despite nine strikeouts chalked up, took the setback. The losers' Bentzoni, with 2-for-three, plucked off game batting laurels.

Today's Game

WYCKOFF-SEARS will take on Veteran of Foreign Wars in the second day of action in the loop today at LL park. Game time is 6 p.m.

Lake Harmony Ups Lead In PM Loop

Strouds Drop First; West End, Bushkill Tied For 2nd; Reeders Wins In 10 Frames

LAKE HARMONY pulled one full game in front, West End knocked the Strouds from the ranks of the unbeaten, and Bushkill moved into a second place tie with West End to highlight action in the Pocono Mountain Baseball League yesterday.

Unbeaten Lake Harmony notched its fifth straight by edging Tannersville, 5-3; West End corralled the Strouds, 5-1, Bushkill overpowered Barrett, 10-6; Saylorsburg walloped Analomink, 12-3; and Reeders outlasted Kunkletown, 10-9, in 10 innings.

4-Hitter For Burkett

kett's four-hit pitching fired West End to a 5-1 victory over the Strouds at Gordon Giffels field yesterday. It was the first loss in four games for the Strouds. The win was West End's fourth in five starts.

Burkett was never behind after his mates gave him a 2-0 lead in the first frame. The Strouds run came in the fifth to cut the margin, 2-1. But the Enders came up with one in the eighth and two in the ninth to salt the win away.

Paces Attack

W. Weiss, of the winners, got two of the five hits off Stroud hurlers Al Shoch, the loser, and Jake Jacobsen. One of Weiss' blows was a homer in the ninth.

SAYLORSBURG — Will Bonser pounded out two home runs—one 335 feet and the other 350 — over the left field fence to lead Saylorsburg to a 12-3 win over Analomink here yesterday.

Bonser also banged out a single to share hitting honors with Bob Bonser who knocked out three hits.

Overpeck Wins

Saylorsburg, behind the hurling of Gil Overpeck, Schmidt and Bob Bonser, had little trouble posting its third triumph in four tries. Overpeck, the starter, got credit for the win.

Saylorsburg scored in every canto but the sixth to hand Analomink its fifth straight loss.

Score Can See, But Not Recognize

CLEVELAND, May 24 (AP)—Sitting on his hospital bed, Herb Score today told a reporter standing three feet away that with his injured right eye, "I could tell you are there, but I couldn't recognize you."

The young southpaw ace of the Cleveland Indians said he can see light and motion with the injured eye, and it is improving every day. He was cheerful and optimistic that he soon will be pitching again.

Cost Of Living Increases

WASHINGTON, May 26 (AP)—The cost of living went up again last month.

A rise of three-tenths of one per cent was recorded by the government's Bureau of Labor Statistics. It brought the living cost index to 119.3 per cent of the 1947-49 average, a new high record.

This means that it took about $1.20 in April to buy the same amount of goods and services you could get for $1 in the 1947-49 period.

It was the eighth straight month in which living costs set a record.

Average

Average weekly earning of an unmarried factory worker, after tax deductions, were computed at $67.09 in April. This compared with $65.08 in April a year ago, but the bureau said the increase was more than absorbed by rising prices.

A sharp, seasonal jump in food prices was the principal factor in last month's rise. All cuts of meat went up, fresh fruit prices increased 4.6 per cent and fresh vegetables were higher. The price of onions alone leaped 17.5 per cent.

The cost of living index edged up enough to give automatic wage boosts of two cents an hour to 1,400,000 workers in the automobile, electrical and farm equipment industries. Their union contracts are geared to living costs as computed by the government.

Food is figured to be 3.8 per cent higher than April, 1956, the same amount of increase as that recorded for living costs as a whole in the last 12 months.

Milk prices declined seasonally, and coffee costs were down for the fifth consecutive month.

All components of housing crept upward, the bureau reported, with rent rising a tenth of one per cent and hour furnishings two-tenths of one per cent.

Reading and recreation recorded the largest monthly increase in more than six years — 1.12 per cent. Ewan Clague, head of the bureau, said this "reflects chiefly higher prices for newspapers in several cities."

Television sets and repairs were higher in the recreation category, as well as the prices of used cars, gasoline, oil and car repairs. There was a dip in the prices actually paid for new cars and tires.

The cost of clothing declined three-tenths of one per cent, mainly, the bureau said, because of lower prices offered following the Easter buying.

Clague said food prices are still on the rise, indicating still higher living costs in May and possibly the summer months.

Cherry Valley Grange Lodge Presents Flowers To Church

CHERRY VALLEY — Richard Seidof, master, presided over a short business meeting of the Cherry Valley Grange on Thursday night.

In recognition of Rural Life Sunday the Grange decided to place flowers in the Poplar Valley Church.

Several appeals from other granges were answered and an answer from CARE was received saying a recent contribution from the grange had been sent to Yugoslavia.

Festival

On display were the pins to be presented at the Stroud Union School commencement to the outstanding vocational agricultural and home economic students.

The group decided to sponsor a strawberry festival in June, a date to be decided upon later. Also discussed was the visit of the Greeley Grange to Cherry Valley on June 27.

A brief Memorial Day program was presented by the lecturer, Mrs. Sam Getz. Miss Nancy Metzger accompanied the group singing. Mrs. Philip Pittman gave the chaplain's prayer and Mrs. Lydia Metzger gave the tribute by Flora. Mrs. Hannah Kresge read an appropriate poem.

After a buffett supper the members held a work session painting the furniture in the hall.

PARTING IS SUCH SWEET SORROW for Mrs. Martha Savercool as she drops a 50-cent piece into one of Stroudsburg's new parking ticket envelopes, being held by meter attendant Loren Doty. After placing the fine into the red envelope, all Mrs. Savercool has to do is seal it shut, and drop it into a box attached to the meter.

Stroudsburg To Feature New Parking Tickets

By Paul Carlson

YOU'LL BE GOING into the red if you pick up very many of the new Stroudsburg parking tickets.

Beginning today, the borough is changing the color of these pesty little tags from green to red.

Borough Manager Harold Snyder announced that there will be another important change. You'll be able to pay your parking fine right on the spot.

It will work this way:

Two Parts

The new ticket will come in two parts. One part will be kept by the meter attendant, while the other will fold into a gummed envelope.

The errant motorist will be able to drop a 50-cent piece into the container, paste the flap shut, and deposit in a box attached to the meter which caused him the trouble in the first place.

If the fine is paid within three days, the envelope states, the levy is only 50-cents. However, if this is not done, an enforcement warrant will be issued for a fine ranging from $1-10, plus $5 costs.

So before you see red, take care of that ticket pronto by dropping it —together with 50-cents—into the nearest meter box.

SOMETHING NEW is being added. Meter Attendant Gaylord Heberling attaches a collection box onto a Stroudsburg parking meter. From now on, motorists can deposit their parking tags, together with 50-cents, into collection boxes on all borough meters.

Warsaw Pact Powers Meet

WARSAW, May 26 (AP)—Warsaw Pact powers held a weekend top-level meeting in Budapest to discuss occupation troop cuts as part of the new Soviet "peace offensive," informed sources said tonight.

They said the meeting was a followup to the recent extended peace campaign coming out of Moscow. It was called apparently to talk about Soviet proposals for reducing Russian forces in Communist bloc countries if NATO powers would slash their forces in western Europe, the informants said.

Campaign

Premier Nikolai Bulganin last week brought the campaign to another climax by suggesting direct disarmament talks with France and renewing suggestions that the rival military blocs engage in a mutual reduction in forces.

Informants said Wlaydslaw Gomulka, Poland's Communist party boss, and Premier Jozef Cyrankiewicz left Warsaw for the meeting Friday night.

Graham Talks On Marriage

NEW YORK, May 26 (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham said tonight he's convinced that "all the trouble in marriage" is caused by couples "breaking and forgetting" the laws governing marriage as laid down in the Bible.

The evangelist told a capacity crowd of 18,500 the "home is the basic unit of all society . . . The home was the first institution God established after creation of man . . . But there is something desperately and tragically wrong with the American home today . . . "

Graham said a successful marriage is based on "physical attraction, mental affinity and spiritual oneness . . . Unless you have spiritual oneness your marriage is headed for the rocks."

The evangelist said "marriage is a permanent relationship never to be broken . . . God never meant for man and wife to be apart . . . "

Pennsylvania To Help

TRENTON, N. J., May 26 (AP) — Pennsylvania's Republican chairman says the Keystone State will make wide gains for the GOP in next year's elections.

Johnson Chills Hopes Of Administration On Budget

WASHINGTON, May 26 (AP)—Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas chilled the hopes of administration leaders today that the Senate could be counted on to restore expected House cuts in the military budget.

Johnson told reporters he does not regard as "sacred and untouchable" the 36 billion dollars in new funds President Eisenhower originally asked Congress to make available for defense.

"The executive agencies have conceded already that they can live with $1,300,000,000 in defense cuts made by the House," Johnson said. "They claim now that the other $1,200,000,000 is the part that cannot be touched.

Sacred

"A few weeks ago the whole sum was considered sacred and untouchable. Congress will continue to do what it has been doing—and that is to eliminate every cent that cannot be justified in the national interest."

Johnson said that in defending his budget Eisenhower "has said things with which most of the American people agree."

"I know of no one who wants to cripple our defense program or America's position in the world," Johnson said. "The real issue is whether too much money is being spent and whether it is being spent wastefully.

"No budget recommendation is sacred. Congress must still apply its judgment as to the size of the recommendations."

The House, which resumes debate tomorrow on the defense money bill, has given every outward sign it will approve its Appropriations Committee's $2,586,000 slash in Eisenhower's new money requests. Secretary of Defense Wilson has asked that about half of this amount be restored.

If both chambers should approve the prospective House cut, military spending for the year beginning July 1 would not necessarily be reduced by that amount because of the large carryover of defense funds voted by previous congresses.

State Senate To Consider Bridge Bill

THE STATE Senate is scheduled this week to begin consideration of the House-approved bill authorizing construction of a new bridge over Brodheads Creek between Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg.

The measure as approved, 171-0 by the House provides for the bridge to be built between Lenox Ave. in East Stroudsburg and Fifth St. near the northern boundary of Stroudsburg.

It would be in addition to the new bridge which will be built farther downstream to replace the inter-borough bridge destroyed by the 1955 flood.

The measure is sponsored by Assemblyman Hanford L. Cleveland (R-Monroe) and August Metz (R-Pike).

Workmen Find Woman's Body

BOSTON, May 26 (AP)—The body of a woman was recovered tonight from a tangled mass of rubble some 17 hours after a shabby 100-year-old tenement building collapsed with a thunderous roar.

Three other persons escaped by leaping to fire escapes attached to an adjoining building. The victim was believed to be Mrs. Susan Johnson, a 68-year-old crippled widow.

GREENSBURG, May 26 (AP) — Rusty Garver, a 15-year-old York boy with an unerring eye, today holds his third straight state VFW marbles championship and his fourth in seven years.

Track Star Charged With Girl's Murder

HACKENSACK, N. J., May 26 (AP)—An 18-year-old high school track star was charged with murder today in the strangling of Ruth Starr Zeitler, a pretty classmate.

Fred C. Galda, first assistant Bergen County prosecutor, said Ronald Marrone, a sophomore at Fair Lawn High, had dictated a statement which Galda termed a confession to the slaying of the 15-year-old girl.

The youth was among more than 40 persons questioned since Ruth's body was found in a lonely lovers' lane area in Paramus last Thursday. He was picked up and brought to the prosecutor's office here for the third time at 7:30 a.m. today and was questioned for more than five hours.

Ruth, a pretty brunette, left for afternoon classes at the high school on May 17. She did not arrive for classes and never came home.

Autopsy

When her body was found, her white belt was knotted about her neck and some of her clothing was rolled up in a ball nearby.

An autopsy report said she had been raped.

Galda said Marrone picked up Ruth in a car at 11:30 a.m. on the fatal day, drove her to the deserted wooded area and managed to return to classes at the school about 12:20 p.m.

The assistant prosecutor gave out only sketchy details on the information in Marrone's statement.

Galda said there apparently was a struggle in the car at the scene. He said Marrone lifted Ruth from the vehicle, placed her on the ground, took her clothing from the car and placed it alongside the body, and then stuffed a tissue paper gag in her mouth.

Galda reported authorities were led to suspect Marrone because the youth on that day did not take a customary ride in his car with another boy and girl before afternoon classes.

The high school operates on a split-session period. Marrone and Ruth went to school in the afternoon only.

The slain girl, known as "Starr," to her friends, was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Zeitler of Fair Lawn. Her father, an insurance broker, described her as a "good kid" who always telephoned if she was to be a few minutes late getting home at night.

The girl will be buried at Fair Lawn tomorrow.

Chiang Fires Three During Formosa Riots

TAIPEI, Formosa, May 26 (AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek fired the garrison commander and two police chiefs today for poor handling of Friday's anti-American riots.

The Nationalist Chinese President then asked U. S. Ambassador Karl L. Rankin to convey to President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles his profoundest regrets at the riots, in which the U. S. Embassy and Information Office were wrecked and 13 Americans hurt. Thirty-two Chinese also were hurt and one was killed.

The mob outburst protested a U. S. court-martial acquittal of M. Sgt. Robert R. Reynolds, 42, of Colora, Md., accused of the voluntary manslaughter of a 33-year-old Chinese man. Reynolds told the court he caught the man looking through a bathroom window while his wife was taking a shower, and shot in self defense when the intruder came at him with a cudgel.

Chiang dismissed the Taipei Garrison commander, Lt. Gen. Huang Chen-wu; the commander of military police, Lt. Gen. Liu Wei, and the chief commissioner of police of Formosa, Lt. Gen. Lo Kan.

Chiang, who returned Saturday from his retreat at Sun-Moon Lake in central Formosa, spent an hour with Rankin in a Sunday conference at the President's home.

Two Sides Line Up Forces

HARRISBURG, May 26 (AP)—Republican and Democratic leaders today lined up their forces for a battle in the House this week on GOP cuts of Gov. Leader's proposed budget and a new school subsidy plan.

The bulk of the governor's budget is in position for final action—probably Wednesday.

Good Morning!

No two people are alike, and both of them are glad of it.

Money isn't everything. But it's way ahead of whatever is in second place.

Dallas Residents Flee From Flooded Homes

Eisenhower, Adenauer Survey Urgent Problems

GETTYSBURG, Pa., May 26 (AP)—President Eisenhower and West German Chancellor Adenauer today surveyed urgent east-west problems from the front porch of the President's farm, and then took off for Washington to continue their talks.

The White House clamped a secrecy lid on the leisurely get-together here, but it seemed certain that Germany's role in any world disarmament plan led the list of the problems discussed.

Eisenhower, dressed in a speckled gray sports jacket and gray slacks, was known to be ready in advance to assure the 81-year-old German leader the United States would never make an agreement which would jeopardize Germany's future reunification.

Adenauer, his formal black clothes contrasting sharply with Eisenhower's casual attire, posed solemnly for pictures with the President afterward. He then accompanied Eisenhower on a 45-minute tour of the chief executive's farm, listening attentively while Eisenhower talked about his prize cattle.

Arrival

Adenauer arrived on one of the President's twin engine aero commanders after spending the weekend in the New York area before beginning his formal three-day visit to the capital.

The German leader's trip to this country, his fifth, seemed timed to give him maximum campaign ammunition to help him and his Christian Democratic Party in their bid for re-election next September.

But Adenauer also came at a time when Eisenhower was in position to give him a preview of the new American disarmament plan which is to be proposed to Russia in talks re-opening in London Monday.

Disarmament chief Harold Stassen, carrying the plan in his briefcase, left Washington for London an hour after Adenauer arrived here for his round of talks with Eisenhower, Secretary of State Dulles and other officials.

The Gettysburg conference, simlar to one Eisenhower held with India's Prime Minister Nehru last year, brought Eisenhower and Adenauer together without their corps of advisers. Only a translator sat in on the meeting.

—In addition to Adenauer's translator, Eisenhower and his guest were joined part of the time during their talks here by the State Department's chief of protocol.

There was no official word on what the chiefs of state talked about, other than farming.

Adenauer in fact, appeared somewhat baffled by the whole business, including the 45-minute tour of the farm, following a creamed chicken luncheon in the white brick Eisenhower farmhouse.

He listened politely, however, as the President showed him the livestock—including a black Brahma bull which, Eisenhower said, gains three pounds a day.

Leader Of Haiti Workers In Command

PORT AU PRINCE, May 26 (AP)—Daniel Fignole, a forceful young leader of Haiti's workers, was inaugurated provisional president today, thus averting civil war—at least for a few hours.

A crowd of 10,000 massed in the square around the Presidential Palace went wild at the swearing-in ceremony.

Workers and peasants took over the streets, rolling in the grass and in the dust in an ecstasy of joy. Hundreds fired shots into the air.

But the atmosphere remained explosive. Police stood at all street intersections, trigger fingers ready.

Vigilantes armed with clubs and stones roamed the city, halting all automobiles in a search for arms.

Two hundred American tourists trapped in their hotels during 24 hours of wild shooting and artillery fire when civil war threatened, were trying to leave the country. All air line schedules to the Caribbean islands were canceled.

Scores of Haitians were killed or wounded in the firing yesterday and today, but it was impossible to establish any accurate count of casualties.

One of the provisional President's first acts was to accept the resignation of Brig. Gen Leon Cantave, the army chief who had ruled Haiti since last Tuesday.

A challenge to Cantave's command of the army by the Haitian police chief, Col. Pierre Armand, had threatened civil war in Haiti. In his resignation, Cantave said "bitter political passions" had culminated in the troops engaging in "fraticidal battle."

Both Cantave and Armand stood at Fignole's side as he was sworn in.

Col. Antonio Kebreau, commander of the Southern Military District, was named army chief in Cantave's place.

Senate Labor Committee To Open Legislation Hearings

WASHINGTON, May 26 (AP)—Senate Labor Committee members start hearings tomorrow on legislation designed to prevent what they have called "shocking abuses" in the handling of employe welfare and pension plans.

One of the bills under consideration would carry out a recommendation by President Eisenhower to curb racketeering. An even tougher measure has been introduced by Sen. Douglas (D-Ill), with the backing of AFL-CIO leaders.

Both Douglas and Secretary of Labor Mitchell have been scheduled as witnesses for the opening session of a subcommittee headed by Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass).

The House Labor Committee has announced tentative plans to start its own hearings Wednesday.

The proposed legislation comes from a two-year investigation by another Senate Labor subcommittee, directed first by Sen. Ives (R-NY) and later by Douglas.

In a report last year, this subcommittee said that while the great majority of welfare and pension plans are honestly administered, "there have been shocking abuses, such as embezzlement, collusion, kickbacks, exorbitant insurance charges, and various other forms of malfeasance."

The report estimated that over 75 million workers and their dependents now are covered by these plans, with annual contributions of nearly seven billion dollars. The reserves amount to some 30 billion.

The legislation is intended to assure disclosure of their financial operations in the belief that this would serve as a deterrent to malpractice and mismanagement.

The administration measure calls for the registration of welfare and pensions plans with the Secretary of Labor, and the filing of sworn annual reports giving information about receipts, disbursements, assets, liabilities and other data.

Douglas' bill requires the filing of similar registration and financial reports with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

New Rains Add To Danger In Southwest

DALLAS, Tex., May 26 (AP) — Thousands of Dallas residents fled their flood-threatened homes today while in other portions of Oklahoma and Texas efforts were made to control flood damage and prepare for more heavy rains.

Dallas police said an estimated 2,500 persons from three sections of the city would be evacuated tonight.

Oklahoma highway officials fought to save U.S. Highway 70 from being destroyed by the rising wind-whipped Lake Texoma. More than 30 resorts and fishing camps at the lake were under water.

At Elgin, Tex., 40 miles east of Austin in the south central portion of the state, 5.50 inches of rain fell today sending more water into the already swollen Colorado River.

Fort Worth, where more than 4,000 persons fled their homes, had torrential rain during the night and this morning. A tornado destroyed a barn in suburban Haltom City, and lightning set fire to an upholstery shop.

Forecast

A severe thunderstorm forecast for most of south central Texas and the Del Rio-Eagle Pass area was issued by the weather bureau.

Three gates on Mansfield Dam, 22 miles north of Austin, were closed to prevent flooding on the Colorado River between Austin and the Gulf of Mexico. Heavy rains fell there today.

Elgin, with 5.50 inches received the most rain, while Austin got 2.50 inches during the night.

The dam is the main flood control facility on the river.

In Dallas, the Trinity River stood at 40.2 feet in mid-afternoon. This was 12 feet above flood stage and 2 feet above major flood stage. The river was rising at the rate of about one foot an hour, according to Dallas police.

The weather bureau had predicted it would rise to 38.5 feet by 6 p.m. today but revised its estimates four times to read 41.5 feet.

The 2,500 persons evacuated lived in south and southeast Dallas. It was the third time residents in some areas had been evacuated this year.

The Red Cross disaster chairman for Dallas, John W. Mayo, said 148 persons were housed in the Red Cross shelter at Fair Park during the night and that more were expected. Others will be taken care of in private homes or in buildings at the park.

Algerian Leader Assassinated

PARIS, May 26 (AP) — A soccer crowd panicked today when a pro-French Algerian leader was assassinated and spectators thought the bullets were aimed at President Rene Coty.

Ali Chekkal, 60, former vice president of the now defunct Algerian Assembly, was shot in the back in the midst of a huge throng pouring out of Colombes Stadium after a soccer game. He died a few minutes after reaching a hospital.

A CHILD'S MAY CROWN FOR MARY—Nearly 300 children from St. Matthew's Roman Catholic Parish took part in the annual May crowning of the Statue of Mary, the Blessed Mother last night at St. Matthew's Church. Procession of children formed at the school and moved up Ridgeway St. to the statue in the courtyard. Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus served as a guard of honor. Adults who gathered on both sides of the street recited the Rosary. After the coronation children moved into the church following altar boys and the Cross to hear a sermon on the Blessed Mother by Rev. William Healy of Scranton. Eighth grade girls were received into the Sodality of the Blessed Mother and medals were presented to them. Rev. Harold G. Durkin officiated at benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

Seasonal Phone Rates To Be Terminated

SEASONAL telephone service rates — once quite popular in this area — will be terminated as of next Saturday. The announcement was made by the Public Utility Commission.

The five-month rate-elimination will affect the Bushkill, Cresco, Delaware Water Gap, Mount Pocono and Stroudsburg locales.

Trend

The change, prompted by Bell Telephone Co., was attributed to the trend to convert the former resort-season (Summer) homes into year-round residences. The seasonal rate has dwindled to where it was used by but 95 patrons.

Two exchanges were switched from the Slatington to the Northampton exchange. They were Lehigh Township in Northampton Co. and North Whitefield Township in Lehigh Co.

McClintock Adds High Humor To Waring Show

IN EVERY show-business organization there is inevitably one performer whose name, face and talents are recognized by all — this in addition, of course, to the "star" of the show. In the case of Fred Waring and the Pennsylvanians, who present "Musicades" for the benefit of the Monroe County YMCA on Wednesday, at 7 and 9:15 at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, that "man-behind-the-scenes" is Poley McClintock.

James Roland McClintock was born in Tyrone, Pa., next door to Fred and Tom Waring. It was only natural that this lifelong member of the world's greatest musical organization become a "charter member," and such was the case. A natural clown in addition to his abilities with percussion instruments, Poley has come "all the way" with the Pennsylvanians.

He joined Fred and Tom in 1918, in the days of the four-piece "Banjazzatra," appeared in vaudeville with them and toured the nation with college engagements in the "jazz" era. He went with them to Europe. And during the past two decades, Poley's hilarious antics have brightened up thousands of radio programs, TV shows and personal appearances. He estimates he has travelled a million miles with his drums, cymbals and what-not — and for Poley it has been a wonderful experience, every inch of the way.

Poley McClintock

Of all the Pennsylvanians, Poley shows up as a "real pro." Each peformance is a bright new experience for him, and the banter between him and Fred Waring is spontaneous and refreshing. He cracks jokes because life has always been fun for him, and the friendship he has maintained among professional people and just plain fans through the years number in the thousands.

Back when Fred Waring made a couple of Warner Brothers movies, Poley played the comic — generally in a blazer sweater. In television, he was Fred's foil and clown. And his frog-voice patter in radio made him an international favorite.

Forty years after the beginnings, Poley faces the future with a smile too. He lives in New York with his wife, Yvette, and their college student son, 'Jamie', and their summers are spent at Shawnee-on-Delaware. There Poley supervises activity around Shawnee Inn's beautiful pool, and busies himself by amusing the children of guests and Country Club members. His broad smile and even disposition are well known and recognized on Stroudsburg's streets, where his friends are legion.

Poley's business is bringing pleasure to the show-goers of the nation — but his business is a real pleasure and satisfaction to him, personally. And this lifelong friend and associate of Fred and Tom Waring will be among the 40 Pennsylvanians on stage at ESSTC Wednesday.

Tickets for the show are available now at the YMCA, Flagler's Drug Store and the Wirt Miller Grocery in Stroudsburg and the Kresge Drug Store, East Stroudsburg.

Anti-Billboard Bill Feared Doomed

The "Battle of the Billboards" is pretty much up in the air right now after last Thursday's action of the Senate Public Roads Subcommittee.

It finally cleared the anti-billboard bill, but only after attaching a 17-billion-dollar price tag to it.

The watered-down measure the subcommittee sent on to the Senate floor is intended to encourage the states to ban advertising signs on some sections of the 41,000-mile interstate highway system.

But it tied this anti-billboard bill to a new proposal to increase the mileage of the interstate system by 7,000 miles. Cost of this additional mileage was estimated at 17 billion dollars, compared with the 27-billion-dollar cost of the 41,000-mile system. It would stretch out the road program from 13 to 20 years.

The action, observers said, probably spells the doom of any anti-billboard legislation in Congress this year. It would be unfortunate if such were to be the case.

The two measures should be brought up separately and each weighed on its own merits. And the anti-billboard legislation should be given priority so it can be made to cover the entire interstate highway program from the start.

If the increased mileage provision is allowed to remain attached, the billboard measure will have little chance of passage until the program is well under way. That could cause complications in every state and make it more difficult to pass a sensible billboard bill in a later Congress.

Congress should clarify the situation now for the benefit of the states, the motoring public and the billboard industry.

Says Teacher College Bills Need Study

Members of the Pennsylvania Senate may have missed the significance of two bills they passed unanimously last week . . . bills affecting the 14 State Teachers Colleges.

One, Senate Bill 330, would grant salary increases to the instructional staffs of the schools.

The other, Senate Bill 694, would require a student "contingent fee" of $150 a year for Pennsylvania residents. It specifies that this money shall go for the operation of the schools "including payment of teachers' salaries."

This means simply that the students in the teacher training institutions will pay the salary raises of their professors.

A strong case can be made for raising the money this way rather than by new taxes. Hitherto decided by the Board of Presidents of the 14 schools, contingent fees this yar were only $90. The board has already decided to raise them to $100 for next year.

Compared to other institutions, the 14,000 students in our teachers colleges are getting by pretty cheaply. Their expenditure for room, board, books and fees (contingent and other averages about $700 a year. Penn State estimates the average cost to its students at $1,300-$1,400 a year. This includes a contingent fee of $280 a year for Pennsylvanians.

Then why not raise the STC fee? The professor certainly need the salary increase.

For one thing, the State, too, gets by rather cheaply in the operation of the 14 campuses. This biennium the State appropriation is $15,600,000. Penn State, with about the same number of students as the STC system, is getting a State appropriation of $25,194,000.

More important perhaps, the administrators of the teachers colleges argue that they are the "poor man's institutions of higher learning"; that they offer students from moderate and low income families an education at a cut rate as well as a chance to become teachers.

Whether the teachers colleges should continue as "cut-rate" schools is another question.

Under the law, the State is supposed to pay the tuition of the Pennsylvania residents in the STC system. In effect, they are supposed to be tuition free. Senate Bill 694 raises the contingent fee to the point that it is debatable whether it would still be a fee or would become tuition.

That's the philosophical side of the issue.

The administrators of the teachers colleges have a practical argument, too. They say that many otherwise qualified students would be unable to pay the extra $50 a year Senate Bill 694 would require.

Before voting on the bill, the House ought to have more information on exactly what effect a $150 contingent fee would have. The House should give the college presidents a chance to prove that a fee increase really would rule out an education for a sizeable number of students.

Certainly the bill should not be passed without far more careful study than the Senate gave it.

Resting Up After Physical Check-Up Exposes One To Silly Drug Ads On TV

It has become increasings customary for those who can afford it to get what they call a check-up. This amounts to taking three or four days off, going into a hospital, getting stuck with needles all over the place while doctors labor valiantly to discover why you are not dead.

For this you pay money, although some manage to put it on their expense accounts like a meal at "21." It is a good thing to do, I am told, and prolongs your life until you retire at 65 when you lose your expense account. That is the saddest thing about retiring. There is a new gimmick which is very helpful to those over 65. It is to be appointed a consultant. That is a generic term for anybody who is not needed but is paid nevertheless. The consultant often lasts till he dies.

Some companies send their executives to the Mayo Clinic. Others go to the Lahey Clinic in Boston which is where they seem to know most about ulcers; when a businessman develops an ulcer it is proof that he has thought too hard in the company's interest, has earned his pay and now has an ulcer to show for it.

Such men are highly honored in the business world, although back in the days of Andrew Carnegie and Charlie Schwab, they were even more honored for making huge profits. When a man runs a company that makes an enormous profit for the stockholders, they, the stockholders, will not worry about whether he has an ulcer or a polyp. All they want him to do is to produce the profits and to show them how to beat the income tax.

I once met a man who made this point about taxes: he said that as long as he made considerably more than he paid, he did not object to the income tax; but when he paid more than he earned, he was resentful. He was a soft and gentle person who believed in government. He will need many check-ups before he retires, because he is likely to be disillusioned often, particularly by budget makers and Presidential speech-writers who will surely not get ulcers or polyps or other troubles which come with maturity.

Well, I done get me a check-up to discover if I have been more wicked than is permissible. So again, I get stuck by needles which is the mark of scientific exploration. What would a modern doctor do without a needle? And they have all kinds of needles and tests and ways of pocking and probing and when it is all over, the doctor cuts the diet another few hundred calories which will ruin another few suits and serve no particular purpose in making me more attractive, as that is now impossible.

Also, I am back to watching television. While there are a few items each day that one can listen to even in the circumstance of a check-up, the amount of tooth-cleaning, face-cleaning, breath-cleaning, I have to listen to is truly unbelievable. But what makes television intolerable is when an actor dresses himself as a doctor and discusses the most private habits of a human being, the working of the bowels and the stomach and other private parts. Why such matters need to disturb a lovely, romantic tale of boy and girl which arouses those few pleasant nostalgic memories left to us, I cannot tell.

Isn't there anything to advertise but how dirty was the girl's face that you last kissed? Ordinary cleanser just takes off dirt. So what you kissed was not the lovely, peach-blown face of your lady love but a dame with a double black smudge that you never saw until you looked at television. And now you know!

Surely there is no delicacy in all this, and sooner or later there must be a rebellion against watching pills go through the bowels when what one really wants is to watch a bit of unrealistic romance or a murder that never could have happened.

So, I am getting a check-up and I recalled to a young doctor that the story that the chinese pay in advance to keep healthy is a myth, undoubtedly invented by some advertising man who had an angle.

Try and Stop Me —by Bennet Cerf

A butcher in the Bronx got along swimmingly with every tenant in his building except a mysterious swami who occupied the third-floor rear. How that butcher and swami loathed each other!

One evening, however, the swami found his cupboard was bare and he was forced to patronize his enemy's shop. "Give me a pound of liver," he ordered a clerk. The butcher beckoned the clerk to the rear of the establishment. "Here's our chance to put one over on that fraud," he exulted. Then, pointing to his clerk's thumb, he sang, "Weigh down upon the swami's liver."

It's always easy to spot a nudist in town, claims Earl Wilson. He's the lad who checks into a hotel with an empty suitcase.

The late Fred Allen always insisted the surest way to get into television was to make an atrocious movie.

The poet Alfred Lord Tennyson once used the literary pseudonym of "Alcibiades."

Letters To The Editor

The Daily Record welcomes Letters with a bona fide address given. Such signatures and addresses will be withheld if the writer desires.

Mr. Leonard Randolph
The Daily Record
Dear Leonard:

Your story in the Daily Record, of Monday, May 13, entitled, "It Pays To Be Active—MacCarthy Warns of Modern 'Push-Button' Philosophy" has come to my attention and brightened my day. It is excellent coverage, reveals deep understanding, sensitivity to values and personal appreciation and support. I want to thank you for the great help you have given in bringing the youth fitness cause to favorable attention in your area.

It must be true that your article has been devoured from beginning to end by practically all of your readers, as it is recorded in such interesting and lively style. Since the Council's first responsibility is to alert the nation and this objective and all the others can be served only by stimulation, idea - dropping, direction pointing, urging, and persuading, the first and basic job is interpretation. In a very real sense, the Council serves as a catalytic agent. It is, therefore, most gratifying to have public communications media carry the message, particularly when it is delivered as effectively as you have stated the case.

As a matter of fact, the Daily Record has been most generous in its coverage of the Youth Fitness theme in the Conference program both before and after my participation. I wish you would be kind enough to convey my deep appreciation, personally and in behalf of the Council, to the appropriate officials of your newspaper.

Budget Time Needed For A Home Project

By Anne Heywood

"You've got to be on top of the clock," was an expression my grandmother's cook often used. What she meant, of course, was that if you let time get you, if you let it run you instead of you running it, you can have a miserable life.

That's especially true of people who want to operate some kind of home business.

Attractive Product

You can have the most attractive product, at the most reasonable price, an enormous number of customers and all kinds of good word-of-mouth advertising. But if you don't know how to handle your time, if you're not "on top of the clock," you're going to be lost.

That is Mrs. Y.'s trouble. Fortunately, she realized it in time.

"I'm married, and have two children in school," she writes.

Home Baking

"I have always loved to cook. Some months ago, I decided to do home baking professionally, making cakes my specialty. I remember you once said it pays to specialize.

"I read all the right books and I figured my prices just right. My customers love the cakes, and business is growing. But—I don't think I can stand it. I haven't a minute to call my own. I never see my friends and family and . . . " Then she went on for three pages of complaint.

It's a typical problem of a new home business. Here are some points that will help straighten it out.

First Six Months

1. Don't plan to have any social life for the first six months of a new home business. Talk to your friends, get the cooperation of your family—and get your own cooperation! You'll be busy getting your project off the ground and you'll have no time for play. But if you work hard at the beginning, you'll get it so well- organized that you'll later be able to have a good deal of leisure.

2. Know when to say "When"! Resist the temptation to get too much business at first. Say "No" to that extra customer who needs a special order. Figure the amount of time you can successfully spend and see how many cakes—or whatever—you can turn out in that time. After that, stop!

Over-Eager Customers

Don't let over-eager customers pressure you into delivering things early, when you can't. You'll break your neck trying and get more flustered than ever.

3. Have some extra help on tap. See if you can find a friend who can occasionally lend a hand—on a paying basis. Unless you learn to delegate some of the duties, you'll never be a success in business!

If you're having trouble selling a home product, or finding time a problem, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope, care of this newspaper, and I'll send you Pointers On Marketing a Home Product.

The trouble with so many praying people is that they talk to God, but do not listen.

Congress To Crack Down On AEC Chief's Power

Washington, May 26— Atomic Commission Chairman Lewis Strauss is headed for a new extraordinary crackdown by Congress.

This latest eruption in the long - raging fued between Strauss and the Joint Congressional Atomic Committee will be in the form of drastic curbs on his Administrative authority.

A provision is being written into the budget authorization bill of the Atomic Commission specifically requiring him to do the following:

Get prior congressional approval for each atomic research and development project before it is begun. Strauss does not have to do that now. Under existing law, the Commission has blanket authority to launch such projects.

Obtain similar advance authorization for grants and subsidies to utilities and others for the construction of power and research reactors. That need not be done at present.

Keep the Joint Committee fully informed of all of Strauss' official activities; that is, what he does not only as chairman of the Atomic Commission, but also as the President's atomic adviser, and as consulting member of the National Security Council, top policy agency of the government.

These requirements are the first of their kind in the decade-old history of the Atomic Commission. No other chairman has faced such a sweeping crackdown.

Also significant, it is bipartisan. Republican and Democratic Committeemen are backing it. Foremost among them are Representatives Carl Durham (D., N.C.), chairman, and James Patterson (R., Conn.).

Round 'n' Round—These unprecedented curbs are the second set to emerge from the Joint Committee against Strauss.

Several years ago a provision was written into the law expressly requiring him to keep all the other members of the Atomic Commission fully appraised of what he is doing and planning.

This unusual step was taken when Committee ire was stirred by two things: (1) Complaints by Strauss' colleagues that important decisions were made without their knowledge or approval; (2) an attempt to revise the Atomic Act to set up "one-man rule" of the mighty agency.

Despite that explicit legislative requirement, Commissioner Thomas Murray last week again charged Strauss with withholding important information.

The bitter vendetta between the two officials is playing a major role in the new crackdown on Strauss. Murray's term expires June 30. A big majority of the Joint Committee favor his reappointment, and have recommended that to President Eisenhower.

Strauss is against it. Committeemen are openly crediting him with preferring no appointment be made rather than for Murray to be renamed. Failure to fill his place would leave two vacancies on the five-member Commission.

Committeemen are saying this is exactly what Strauss wants, as it would make him, in effect, the "one-man ruler" of the Atomic Commission.

The two other members, Commissioners W. F. Libby and Harold S. Vance, are attributed to Strauss' personal selection. They have sided with him on all issues, particularly involving differences with Murray.

The Joint Committee has jurisdiction over appointments to the Commission. That portends more warring with Strauss in the event Murray is dropped. Responsibility for that will be put squarely on Strauss, as will the choice of a successor. As a result, the latter's approval by the committee is certain of protracted consideration.

The bill authorizing the commission's $1,900,000,000 budget is now under deliberation by the committee. That is being done behind closed doors because of the highly classified nature of many of the items.

After Congress votes this authorization measure, the House Appropriations Committee will then go to work on the actual money bill for the Commission.

Rep. Clarence Cannon (D., Mo.), Appropriations chairman, is keeping in close touch with the Joint Committee. Cannon also has long been critical of Strauss, and strongly favors the contemplated curbs on him.

Note: One matter Strauss is slated to be questioned about is that visitors to his office are "covered" by secretly - hidden guns aimed at them. Committeemen have been informed he told that to several callers.

Pro and Con—Vice President Nixon usually shoots a better golf game than President Eisenhower. Nixon's average score is around 80. . . . Treasury Secretary George Humphrey, who took up golf a few months ago, is getting discouraged. He's telling friends that if he doesn't do much better soon, he will give up the game. . . . Civil Defense Director Val Peterson is complaining Congress is indifferent to his repeated pleas for funds to build atomic shelters in Washington. All his proposals for such bomb shelters have been tossed out by the Senate and House Appropriations Committees.

Number Of Deer Rises In Poconos

By Jim Riley

The deer population of the Pocono Mountains increased by two last week, so this carpenter of words has been informed.

The addition came in the arrival of two fawns at Al Cox's Bear Stop, just below Delaware Water Gap.

Birth of the twin fawns was announced on Friday.

Cox now features 10 deer, eight of the adult variety and the two fawns. He also has two bears.

The new arrivals as yet haven't been named.

The Once Over —by H. I. Phillips

Workers in at least one industry are demanding that the "coffee break" be written into new contracts . . . The yen for more time to relax from the job marches on ... A few years ago the "coffee break" was unheard of and if you wanted to drop everything and take time out for Java you had to be secretive and fast . . . It developed into a routine, became a habit and may soon bring the picket line . . . Coffee can develop into as important a factor in employer-worker relations as the shorter week, the multiple holiday, and pension rights, even if the workers prefer hot chocolate.

The coffee break is like the seventh-inning stretch, the half-phone conversation, the long wind-up, the missing persons outdoor rally and the sign "Out. Return Soon." It is the world's greatest unscheduel work suspension with cream and sugar.

Once upon a time we thought we could endure staying on the job until the lunch hour and all afternoon until the closing whistle. One thing was sure: the fellow missing from his desk several times during a seven or eight-hour stretch wasn't out for a hot drink. For close to a decade, however, so many workers have been out so often for coffee that it could easily be suspected that Brazil was in conspiracy to cut American production.

The mere mention of coffee has made many an employer see red . . . His great fear is that the staff will develop a similar appetite for tea and ask time out for gypsy tea-leaf reading.

Today coffee is in labor relations discussions, including cup, saucer, spoon, and buttered roll . . . Watch for the banner "Unfair to Java Drinkers." . . . And look for state and Federal arbitrators discussing the coffee pot and its rightful place in industry. (P. S.—Will the arbiters slow up things by insisting on a coffee break like everybody else?)

Ed Sullivan took the cameras off a wild animal act in its most exciting moment to interview members of the audience . . . This showed such disrespect for man-eating beasts that every lion on earth is sore enough at him to go over to the Allen show . . . The spirit of the American sabbath took a pasting from that recent Mike Wallace TV candid interview program and you can still hear cries of "Foul!" from American living rooms . . . The standards of good taste, propriety and respect for the minds of the young were busted as never before when on a Sunday night, a convict famed for years as a hoodlum and killer, got a top spot on the airwaves and was permitted even to attack American police officials by name as sadistic, alcoholics and thieves who will stoop to anything. . . (And this in almost the same breath in which he admitted killing several men and defended it as a self-defense act such as any businessman would take!!!!) If this show wasn't a profanation of the sabbath, an effrontery to the general public and a bid for sensationalism no matter how many minds of teen-agers and muddled adult baddies were warped, name any airwave performance in history than can "make that statement."

Memorial Day Parade To Be Held In Stroudsburgs Thursday

Organizations To Honor War Dead

VETERANS' organizations combine their efforts Thursday morning in a traditional Memorial Day parade in The Stroudsburgs.

The annual observance will open on its customary quiet note with the placement of a wreath at the Legion Monument in East Stroudsburg at 8 a.m. A half-hour later an identical wreath will be lowered to the foot of the Doughboy statute in Stroudsburg's Court House Square.

At each of the two locations there will be a chaplain's prayer, the firing squad will fire three volleys and a bugler will sound "Taps."

All parade units will assemble on Ann St. (in the rear of the YMCA) and Williams St. Units will move out promptly at 9 a.m. from Williams St. to Main St.

The line of march from this point will be as follows: Eastward on Main to Seventh St. where the leading elements of the First Division will halt with colors and grand marshals facing the Doughboy Monument while taps is sounded again.

After this brief ceremony the parade will proceed east on Main St. to the State bridge. Here the column will halt again as flower petals are dropped into the stream, signifying Naval heroes who have been killed in battle. Taps will be sounded again.

Prospect Cemetery

At the conclusion the parade will proceed up Washington St. to S. Courtland to Crystal St. to Brown St. to Prospect St. and into Prospect Cemetery.

The official "line of march" will be the following:

Three cars for honored guests, disabled war veterans, the main speaker (Horatio Haas Jr., commander of the National Society of the 28th Division) and the burgesses of both boroughs, grand marshals, parade co-chairman Earl R. Palmer, the commanders of the VFW, 28th Division, American Legion, Marine Corps Reserve, Marine Corps League and the chaplain.

Marching before the four divisions will be color bearer and guards. In the first division will be the Legion Drum and Bugle Corps, East Stroudsburg Acme Hose Fire Co., VFW and American Legion Post and Auxiliary members.

Second division: Smithfield School Band, and Co. G, 109th Infantry. Third division: East Stroudsburg High School Band, and Co. F, 109th Infantry. Fourth division: Stroudsburg High School band, Salvation Army, Girl and Boy Scout troops.

In the event of rain on the morning of the parade, all units are requested to report to Stroudsburg High School where services will be held beginning at 10 a.m.

THE LONG WAY HOME—Putting the younger generation in the shade Saturday H. O. Brodt, Mount Bethel, an alumnus of East Stroudsburg Normal School, class of 1896, walked nearly five miles to catch a bus. He was headed for his class reunion at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College; made it in fine style, even though he's 90 years old, nearly 91. With Brodt in photo are Miss Genevieve Zimbar, standing, acting head of Health Education Department and Miss Amanda Angle, who accompanied the elderly man.

Mount Bethel Man Walks Five Miles To Reunion Of Class

A MOUNT Bethel man who is 90 years old and "going on 91" walked nearly five miles to catch a bus to attend the 61st reunion of his East Stroudsburg State Teachers College class Saturday.

H. O. Brodt is still "hale and hearty" even though he's nearing the century mark.

On Teachers College campus Saturday he was the "star attraction", college officials said. Brodt was the oldest alumnus attending the annual reunion day program, the only member of the 1896 class which was the oldest class represented on the campus at the reunion.

Saturday morning the elderly man took off from his home near Mount Bethel and walked all the way to Portland along the highway. At the Portland intersection he waited for and eventually boarded a bus headed for East Stroudsburg.

Third Group

The class of 1896 was the third group to be graduated from the Normal School in East Stroudsburg—predecessor of the present Teachers College.

At that time teachers were prepared only for elementary-grades instruction. Brodt went on to teach in public schools for 36 years before he left education for other fields.

Dr. Francis B. McGarry, dean of instruction at the college, said that Brodt's appearance was "certainly a highlight of a generally successful reunion day." Dr. McGarry estimated that 300 persons attended the program.

The class of 1912 had the best representation, he said. There were 74 persons from that class at the reunion dinner. Nearly all early classes were represented well, Dr. McGarry said.

Father Jordan Honored At Pocono Manor

POCONO MANOR — Father Jordan, pastor of St. Ann's Church and mission at Tobyhanna, was honored for 25 years of service to the priesthood yesterday. The Silver Jubilee, held here at Pocono Manor Inn, was attended by 250 guests.

Father Jordan, who is an enthusiastic member of the community's civic organizations, was ordained on May 21, 1932. He has served at St. Mary's of the Mount Church, Mt. Pocono; St. Vincent's Church, Plymouth; St. Mary's of Mount Carmel, Dunmore; and St. Anthony's Church, Stowell, before being appointed as pastor of the St. Ann's Church in 1951.

A Scranton man originally, Father Jordan was born in 1904, son of Daniel J. and the late Mrs. Elizabeth McMullen Jordan. (His father was one of the honored guests at yesterday's dinner.) After graduation from St. Thomas College in 1927, he entered St. Bonaventure's Seminary.

Prior to the dinner, a solemn high mass was held at 12 noon at St. Ann's. The deacon was Rev. Ray Mulligan of Shohola, Pa., and Rev. Carl Cummings, Nicholson, was the sub-deacon.

Rev. John Lawler, also of St. Ann's, was the master of ceremonies at the dinner. He was assisted by Rev. William Fontenill, the assistant Chancellor of the Cathedral, Diocese of Scranton. The Very Rev. James Collins, CSSR, of the San Alfonzo Retreat Home, Long Branch, N. J., was the preacher.

Among the visitors were Father Andrew Maloney, pastor of St. Mary's of North Pittston, and Father Aloyisous Boylan, Holy Name Church, Swoyersville.

In addition to his position as the pastor of the parish which includes St. Rita's Mission, Gouldsboro; St. Mary Magdalen's Mission, South Sterling; and Our Lady of the Lake Mission, Pocono Pines, Father Jordan has been an active member of the Tobyhanna Civic League and the Tobyhanna Community Council.

After the dinner, a reception was held at St. Ann's which members of all faiths attended.

Golden Deeds Award Banquet Set Tonight

TONIGHT at Mountain Lake House, Marshalls Creek, East Stroudsburg Exchange Club will present its annual Golden Deeds Award.

This year's award goes to a group of Monroe County women whose actions have been relatively unsung in the community—the Gray Ladies branch of the local American Red Cross.

Working constantly at General Hospital, the Gray Ladies annually devote thousands of hours of their time toward making the hospitalization of all patients more cheerful and happy.

Duties

Their duties at the hospital are quiet, unspectacular and more important than anyone—except hospital patients—realizes.

Tonight's award presentation marks the first time that Exchange Club members have given their coveted award to a group instead of an individual. The award is presented each year to the person or persons who have made the greatest contribution to community life and welfare over a period of years in the judgment of the local club and the National Exchange.

TOTAL MEMBERSHIP in Stroudsburg Aerie 1106, Fraternal Order of Eagles, reached 1,700 yesterday when a class of 16 candidates was initiated at a Mother's Day ceremony.

A telegram was read from Maurice Splain, state secretary, congratulating the lodge for exceeding its annual membership quota. Including yesterday, Stroudsburg Aerie initiated 107 members in the past year against a quota of 96, according to Ernest Ridgeway, membership chairman.

Fred Bachelor's team, with 37 candidates, was announced as winner of the membership contest. High individual producer was Clair Learn with 22 enrolled.

Past presidents filled the chairs during the initiation ceremony. George Price served as past president; Sam Driebe, president; Walter Koszot, vice president; George Mackey, chaplain; Wade Butz, conductor; Al Ruster, inside guard; Harvey Hay, outside guard.

They were escorted to the platform by John Leathers and the color guard. Frank Forrie was in charge of the music and oratory.

Principal speaker was Joseph Gibson, state inside guard and secretary of the Scranton lodge. Guests who spoke briefly were Herbert Werley, of Kutztown, District 11 president, and Morgan Kemmerer, of Lehighton.

The regular officers headed by Truman Burnett as president conducted the business meeting. The next regular meeting will be held Tuesday night, June 4.

Police Seek Man's Identity

SHICKSHINNY, May 26 (AP) — Police sought today to establish the identity of a man whose badly decomposed body was found yesterday in north branch waters of the Susquehanna River near here.

The man was described as about 35 years old, five feet-five inches tall, gray and balding. The body was fully clothed—including five pairs of socks and two pairs of pants.

Fuses Found At Scene Of Forest Fires

SEVERAL railroad fuses have been uncovered at the points where brush fires were started a short time ago.

Research Forester E. F. McNamara made this disclosure over the weekend, thereby giving weight to the continued belief that arsonists set many of the fires which destroyed thousands of acres in the Effort Mountain area.

"When 12 separate fires are set in sequence before daylight," remarked McNamara, "that isn't any accident."

Investigation

Therefore, investigators have been quietly—but relentlessly—working to locate the individuals who set the forest fires.

"We found fusees in the hope to have the investigation entirely cleared up within a few weeks," McNamara said.

"We found fuseeos in the woods," he continued. "Very often evidence is hard to discover because it is burned with the fires.

"But there wasn't any mistaking these fuses," he added.

Vets Honor Gold Star Mothers

THOMAS P. LAMBERT Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, held its annual meeting in honor of Gold Star Mothers and deceased veterans yesterday.

Elmer D. Christine delivered the main address. Guests of honor were Gold Star Mothers from the Monroe County area.

Post officials noted that the following members died during the past year: Albert Bachman, Jack W. Bachman, Harry Van Buskirk, Howard C. Mount, Ernest Celo, Joseph A. Cortright, James W. Raughley, Russell R. Shiffer, Ralph W. Edinger, Alvin J. Fetherman and Robert J. Lesoine, Jr.

Post officers and members who took part in yesterday's service were Commander Fred Feiler Sr., Vice Commander Harvey Possinger, Past Post Commander Forrest Haney, Chaplain Andrew Mery, and Ethel Dickisson, president of the Ladies Auxiliary.

Capt. Charles Baker of the Salvation Army gave the invocation and benediction. Ernest Michelfelder was the organist.

An honor guard, consisting of Sgt. Charles Jenkenson, Pfcs. Otto and Tanner and Pvt. Counterman, was furnished by Co. G.

Women Spark Revolution In Paint Business

NOT SO many years ago, "redecorating" meant re-doing the interior of the home. Today the word also applies to repainting the exterior.

That's how Jim Detrick, manager of the Sherwin-Williams branch at 517 Main St., explains what he calls the "feminine influence" on home painting in this area.

"Back in the days when woman's place was in the home, she confined her flair for color to the rooms in which she spent so much time," he observed. "But nowadays she pays just as much attention to the outside of the house."

To illustrate the effect this is having, Detrick cited the growing use of color on home exteriors.

The Lady Insists

"Whenever a family discusses exterior painting, it is almost always the lady of the house who insists on color. And she wants gay, bright color that "does something" for the house—and for her!" he said.

As an example of the color ideas the distaff side is pursuing, he pointed to the lively colors now adorning doors, flower boxes and garden furniture, trellises and other back-yard paraphenalia.

Detrick confessed that his sympathies are all with the ladies.

"No mere male can argue against the soundness of their thinking," he believes. "There's nothing like a gay fillip of color to give any property individuality. And when colors are chosen with some consideration for those the neighbors are using, the overall effect can work wonders for the neighborhood."

Meeting these color demands is not always a simple task, the local businessman admitted. But he hastened to add that the paint industry has kept pace with them.

"Only a few years ago," he explained, "the number of colors available in exterior house paint was quite limited. Today, the range of shades is expansive. Sherwin-Williams, for example, offers 91 exterior house paint colors—more than five times as many as were available just five years ago.

"But it isn't only in the number of colors that progress has been made. Today's colors are much more durable than yesterday's. And they are available in paints that cover just about every type of surface, including clapboard, brick, stucco, concrete, masonry, shakes and shingles.

"What it amounts to is a revolution in house paint—a revolution inspired by women!"

Trailers Ideal For Fishing Trip

TROT OFF to your favorite fishing spot next weekend in a Trotwood Travel Trailer.

For vacations, for fun, for pure pleasure, these compact, little travel trailers are your "magic carpet" to the playground and scenic spots of the country.

You can see the brand new Trotwood trailer at Van D. Yetter's, mobile home dealer, Route 402, near Marshalls Creek.

Yetter invites you to look them over. You'll readily see that Trotwood trailers are uniquely designed to make every square foot livable and practical.

Companion

These trailers make the perfect traveling companion — they go everywhere you and your car go!

The remarkable ease of handling and safety in towing a Trotwood Travel Trailer over any kind of road, is due to Trodwood's exclusive "Step Action" independent wheel suspension. It permits each wheel to operate entirely independent of the other. The result is an ideal "floating ride" with a total absence of the usual pitch and sway found in conventional types of wheel suspension.

The Trotwood Dinette, with its cushioned seats, easily and quickly converts to a full length bed when not in use for dining. Twin beds or Hollywood bed are standard in the Sun Chaser model and overhead bunk beds are available for all models as optional equipment.

Light Color Is Obtained

NOW YOU can make dark furniture light without removing the old finish. And you can easily do the job yourself.

That's right! No scraping, no sanding, no need to remove the old finish.

How do you do this?

It's all done with an amazing new product—A-C-M Plastic Finish Paint —sold in this area by the Pocono Paint-Up Center, 722 Main St., Stroudsburg.

Easy To Use

A-C-M is very easy to use. You don't need any experience to get beautiful, richly grained effects over your old dark walnut and mahogany furniture.

You have a choice of swedish maple, limed oak, bleached mahogany, platinum blond, blond mahogany.

See A-C-M plastic finish paint demonstrated at the Pocono Paint-Up Center.

Soap Saves Paint

OUTSIDE painted walls that are dingy and discolored don't always need repainting. Washing with soap and water often can restore their freshness. Use a scrub brush on a small area to check the results of washing. If you're satisfied start at the bottom and work your way up. After washing rinse with clear water, using a hose.

Special Oil Settles Dust

THERE'S A quick cure for that swirling dust around your property.

Call Shiffer's Bituminous Service (ph. 4019) and ask to have your parking area or dirt road treated with an application of special dust oil.

The job can be done quickly and economically and it will put an end to that dust problem in a hurry.

House Paint Improves Rugs

THE FIBER rugs used on porch floors frequently become faded and drab-looking. These can be greatly improved and given new color with the aid of regular house paint, thinned with turpentine. Use about half of each.

It's advisable, naturally, to do the painting on a flat area on the lawn, but if this is not possible, you can work on the porch. Just be sure to place several layers of newspaper beneath the rug before you begin.

New Heater Developed By Firm

IF YOU'RE a motel or cabin owner, or if you're planning to build, this is for you!

The H. C. Archibald Company, 406 Main St., has just received a revolutionary new type of gas heating unit from the Stewart-Warner Company. Known as the Saf-Aire wall heater, it is 'safety-sealed, needs no chimney, ducts or electricity and can be used in one room or the entire home.

What makes this wall heater different is this:

Saf-Aire burns any type of gas heating fuel in a sealed chamber. Sealed vents through the wall supply outside air for combustion and discharge products of combustion directly outdoors. Fire and its end products are separated completely from the room air you breathe.

Since there is no open flame and all controls are sealed, there is no danger of burning out the oxygen in the room and the danger of gas fumes is eliminated.

And since no electricity is needed, you have no worry about lack or absence of heat due to power failures.

This new Saf-Aire wall heater has already proven itself efficient and economical in test areas throughout the county.

Stop in at the H. C. Archibald Company showroom and see it demonstrated.

Color Caulking

A PHILADELPHIA manufacturer has developed a new line of caulking compounds in 26 different colors and shades to match or contrast with colors of windows and doors.

Modernize Heat Plant

MODERNIZATION of the heating system is the answer to sluggish heat, higher than normal fuel bills, and uneven heat distribution, Robert H. Collins, manager of D. Katz & Sons Plumbing & Heating Dept., points out.

It is during the summer months that the overhauling of the home heating plant can be carried on with the minimum of interference with family routine.

Hundreds of home heating plants, Mr. Collins points out, are still limping along with systems originally made for solid fuel. The entire system can be given a lift by a new unit designed especially for modern fuels.

Fuel economy, more room, and better appearance to say nothing of better heating will result from this change, Mr. Collins adds.

Revolutionary changes have been made in heat distributors. Available for replacing old-style radiators are inconspicuous baseboards which provide a high degree of comfort by heating the lower part of the room and blanketing outside walls with a curtain of warmth.

Also available are streamlined convectors with attractive modern lines which can be installed free-standing or recessed.

The difficulties which householders have with many heating systems can be corrected by better thermostatic control.

If you desire a free estimate on repair or replacement of your present heating system, call D. Katz & Sons plumbing and heating division (2369).

Once upon a time...

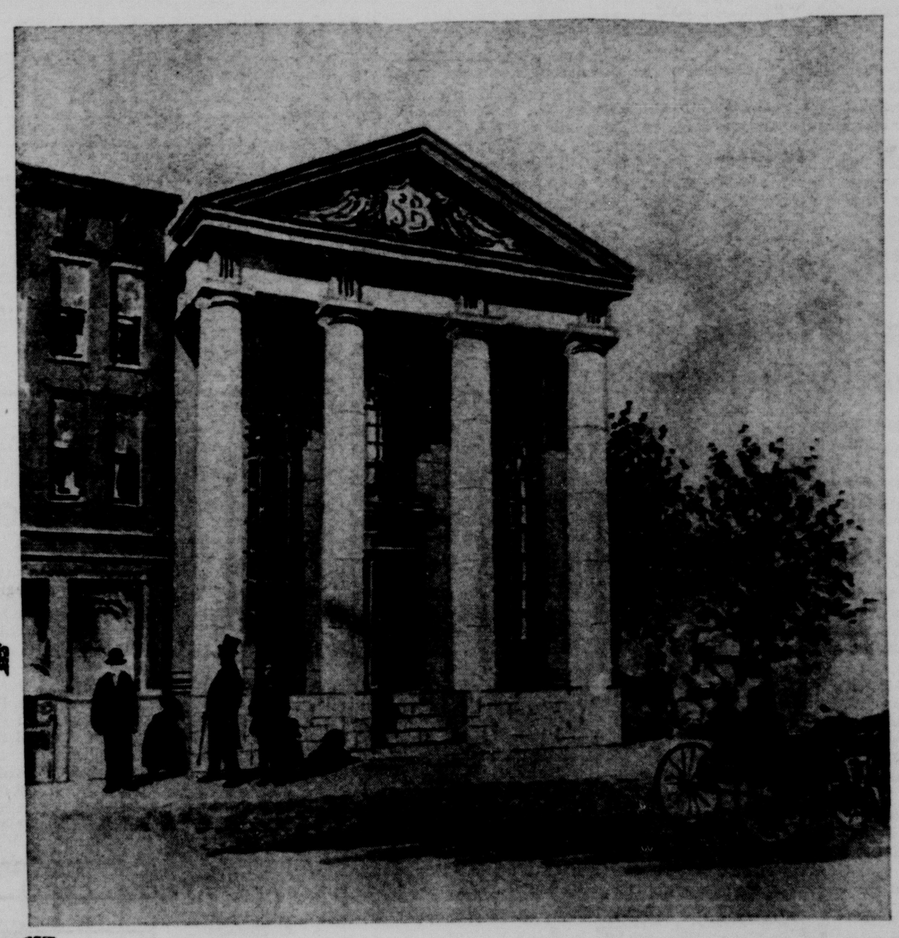

That's the way most good stories start. Our story is no different in that respect.

It all began 100 years ago . . . in the days of young Abe Lincoln. The seeds of Civil War were just beginning to sprout . . . automobiles, telephones and all the other wonderful things we have today were still a long way off. It was in this setting —in 1857—that First-Stroudsburg began serving the people of this area. Next week we will celebrate our 100th Anniversary . . . the end of one century and the beginning of another. Proud of its service, its history and its growth, First-Stroudsburg looks not back but forward to the birth of a new century of service to you and the region as a whole.

All personnel of First-Stroudsburg—Directors, Officers and Employes —cordially invite you join them in the 100th Anniversary Celebration next week. It marks the close of a proud century and beginning of a new one, which First-Stroudsburg expectantly awaits with an assurance that it will be truly THE Century of Progress in friendly, efficient banking and trust service to its customers.

FIRST since 1857

This is how First-Stroudsburg National Bank looked 100 years ago. The bank still stands on the same location, at the corner of Main and Seventh Sts. Many changes in size and general appearance have been made through the years. Two years ago the bank interior was entirely remodeled again and central air conditioning was installed. The sketch above was done by Edwin Motts.

A NEW SURPRISE EVERY DAY

Dr. Price Former School Teacher

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the first in a series of articles to be written by Leonard Randolph on the life of Dr. Nina Price. The series will appear periodically during the next week.

By Leonard Randolph

MONROE COUNTY doctors, nurses and other citizens gathered last week to lavish their love and respect on Dr. Nina Price.

Yet there wasn't one person in the 100 in the ballroom of the Penn-Stroud Hotel who felt that he could give a hundredth the devotion Dr. Nina has spent on her patients as individuals during each day of her 50 years in medicine.

What has there been in Nina Price's life to make her the humanitarian she is?

There is, of course, no single answer to that question. Like all other human beings she is a product of the world in which she has lived to some degree.

Like some other human beings she has learned to live almost completely beyond herself, reaching out in all directions when and where she is needed.

Unlike most "humanitarians" she has never ceased being (1) a very feminine woman, (2) a loving, dedicated mother and (3) a lighthearted creature with a notable ability to see the humorous side of nearly all situations.

Nina Mae Case was born Nov. 30, 1882 in Ithaca, Mich. Her father — who bore the learned first and middle names of Marcus Aurelius and the last name Case—was an engineer.

Nina was the next-to-youngest of nine children in the Case family. Her mother, Harriet Helms Case, was a former schoolma'am, an occupation which, in those years, carried with it the requirements of strong scholarly background in a wide variety of fields and an ability to turn your hand to rigid discipline.

Perhaps because of this, Nina and the rest of the Case children came through their early years with their mother as a dominant force. It was less strong in Ithaca, but when Nina was six she moved with her family to the high mountain regions near Williamsport.

In 1888 the hills behind Williamsport were unusually isolated. The Case family became a self-contained, highly independent unit whose borders included the world through books and teaching but seldom extended beyon the home itself.

This isolation cut the Cases off from formal education — they lived too far from town to attend a public school. The teaching, therefore, was handled entirely by Harriet, their mother.

Even though it was "home" education, the Case family "schoolroom" never exuded the flavor of private tuotoring. Nine children, after all, could match most of the "classes" in a country school of the day and the teaching was anything but monotonous.

Harriet Helms Case had "strong convictions" on education, one of her granddaughters who had occasion to come under her "tutelage" later recalls. She drummed the material of books into her children's heads with firmness and a hard-working approach which had a lasting effect.

After six years of education from her mother, Nina was taken into Williamsport for enrollment in the school there. The family knew she had been quick to learn and that she had a mind with amazing retentive powers. But this hardly prepared them for the shock they got from school officials.

Nina finished the tests given her by teachers at the school, answered oral questions, talked with the educators. When it was all over, the school principal said that Nina could enter the school right away.

She was, right now, he said, a student with the formal standing of a senior in high school. At 12, Nina was starting her last year of school—without ever having set foot in a schoolroom.

Nina Mae Case was graduated from Williamsport's public school at the age of 13.

From high school she went on to attend Battle Creek College in Michigan. She spent two years there. College officials informed her at the end of her second year that she was "too young to graduate from college." Nina promptly quit the college campus and accepted a job as a teacher for one year in Bell Harbor, Michigan. She moved to California the next year to teach in Eureka schools.

By that time she was "old enough" to graduate from college. She accomplished this feat of formal education at St. Heilsburg College in California.

It was during the earliest years of her life that Nina had made up her mind she wanted to be a doctor. The school-teaching was a means to an end.

An incident shortly after the Case family moved to Pennsylvania helped set the child's mind on medicine as her goal in life. The community into which they moved had previously felt the stamp of Nina's grandmother's life and personality.

Grandmother Helms had been a "humanitarian", too. Nina heard little about her work in the community until one day in the early Summer she was taken for a ride in a horse and buggy rig by an older man who had known the Helms family for a long time.

As she recalls the incident now, her chauffeur was a friendly, reminiscent-minded man who served as a semi-historian for the countryside. When the buggy passed a small, mountain graveyard, the older man pointed to it and asked Nina:

"D'you see that tiny graveyard there? Well, d'you know why it's so small?"

Nina said she didn't.

"Well, little girl, it's because of your grandmother. We had a lot of sickness here during past years and we didn't have any doctors. It was your Grandmother Helms that kept us alive and it's her we have to thank that 90 out of a hundred of us aren't layin' there right now."

That incident—a brief, sharp fragment out of childhood—made an obviously lasting impression on Nina's mind and her dreams. It it can be said that one moment in a human life decides a whole lifetime, it would seem apparent that Nina's destiny was set down by the sight of a sparsely-populated cemetery in a child's eyes.

The dream did not diminish. It stayed with her in her own home and it traveled with her into the classrooms and the colleges.

It began to take its final steps toward reality when she came back East from California.

Nina entered medical training at Northwestern University in Illinois. It was a day of promise and fulfillment for the young girl.

But the early 1900's were narrow in their philosophies about women. Northwestern was no exception.

Nina Case found herself confronted with a solid wall of implacable and ill-disguised dislike for "her medics." Women were given the chance to study and work; they could "assist" and do some of the dirty work — but "practical experience" for women doctors was unheard of.

Nina hitched her pride up a notch or two, packed her textbooks and her determination. There was only one thing to do: find a college designed solely for the education of women doctors.

The school was Woman's Medical College in Philadelphia.

The girl whose grandmother had helped save most of a whole community from death was determined to turn her life and energies the same way.

Nothing — and that included masculine myopia—was going to kill that dream.

Disarmament Talks Today

WASHINGTON, May 26 (AP)—Another high level disarmament conference will be held at the White House tomorrow, presumably to put the finishing touches on a new proposal to be made to Russia.

President Eisenhower set the meeting for 9 a.m. EDT and asked some of his leading advisers to be present.

Names

These include Harold E. Stassen, his disarmament aide; Secretary of State Dulles, Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; Lewis Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission; Donald Quarles, deputy secretary of defense, and Robert Cutler, presidential aide on national security matters.

Stassen leaves for London at noon Sunday for the resumption of arms limitation talks with representatives of the Soviet Union, Canada, Great Britain and France. The London talks had been going on for nine weeks before the present recess.

It is reliably reported that Stassen will take with him an American proposal for an international treaty which would bind countries not now possessing atomic-nuclear weapons not to make them or seek to acquire them in any way. The United States, Britain and Russia are the only nations now possessing atomic and H-bombs.

Details of the proposal are still secret, but it is understood to include a "small" reduction in East-West weapons, manpower and defense spending, along with creation of specified areas which would be opened to aerial inspection.

Weapons discarded by each nation, it is reported, would be sent to disarmament depots under the control of the United Nations.

Disarmament problems were discussed by the President and the National Security Council at a two-hour meeting yesterday.

There was another secret meeting at the State Department today, in which Vice President Nixon and Allen Jdulles, chief of the Central Intelligence Agency, participated.

In charge of the workshops will be Isador Melamed, executive director of the AFL Medical Center, George Kelly, labor representative to the Pennsylvania United Fund, and Prof. Sumberg. At night there will be a banquet, entertainment and dancing under the auspices of the Monroe County Central Labor Union. At a Sunday noon luncheon the delegates will hear an address by Congressman George Rhodes (D-Pa.) on Federal activities in the field of labor unionism.

AFTER 50 years, school spirit still runs high for members of the class of 1907 of Stroudsburg High School.

At a reunion luncheon on Saturday afternoon, members of the class presented the gift of $1000, to be placed in trust, with the interest to be presented each year in the name of the class of 1907 to the graduating student with the highest academic standing. This is the second gift of the class to the school since it previously presented the flag pole now in use at the new high school.

The class of 1907, which included six boys and six girls, had as its high school the corner room on the school on the hill with Will Ramsey as the principal. There were at that time about 40 students in the high school all together.

Graduation

Graduation exercises were held in the court house and they held the distinction of being the first class to graduate in caps and gowns. Five of 12 members were graduated from the commercial course, first instituted in the high school in 1903.

At the luncheon held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stackhouse, Bryant St., the full commencement program was relived including the commencement address by Allan Bensinger, now a Philadelphia lawyer. Delivered at the time that the Panama Canal was being built, the Bensinger's oration deplored the "terrifically high cost" of the project, running to 175 million dollars, a sum which today seems small in governmental spending, as members pointed out.

The alumni essay, delivered at their commencement by Emma Shay of the class of 1903, was also read.

Of the class of 12, eight members are still living with the equal proportion being maintained, with four men and four women. Seven of those members were here for the reunion, shown above. Mrs. Mabel Warner Griffiths of Annapolis was unable to attend.

ESSTC To Confer Degrees On 129 Graduates This Morning

EAST STROUDSBURG State Teachers College will confer degrees on 129 seniors this morning at 10 in the campus auditorium.

Main speaker at the traditional commencement exercise—the 64th of its kind held at the local college—will be Major Rex S. Morgan, a career U.S. Army officer who has established a wide reputation as "humorist, raconteur and star athlete."

Major Morgan's topic for the morning will be "The Time To Read the Stars." He is assistant professor of military science and tactics in the Reserve Officers Training Corps at Cornell University, a post he has held since 1954.

This morning's commencement will open with the procession of degree candidates into the auditorium. Rev. Harold C. Eaton will give the invocation. The college chorus, directed by Wilfred J. Clelland, will then sing "Send Forth Thy Spirit".

Introductions

Following Morgan's address degree candidates will be introduced by Dr. Francis B. McGarry, dean of instruction. Degrees will be conferred by Dr. LeRoy J. Koehler, president of the college.

The chorus will be heard in two other selections: "Father Most Holy" and "Go Down, Moses." Rev. Eaton will give the benediction.

Ushers for commencement will be Frank Ashcroft, Faye Dallmeyer, Richard George, Richard Hilliard, Louise Koller, Thomas Kilker, Rosemary Lobb, Helen Potter, Robert Sprau and Barbara Wellington. Officers of the 1957 class are: John Powers, president; Clyde Quinn, vice president; Barbara Baatz, secretary; William Miller and Shirley Neas, treasurers.

Graduating seniors attended baccalaureate service yesterday afternoon at 3 in the college auditorium. Dr. Colin F. Miller, dean of the chapel at Hamilton College, Clinton, N.Y., gave the sermon. Assisting in the service was Rev. John A. Bollier, pastor of Stroudsburg First Presbyterian Church, who gave the invocation and benediction. The college chorus also took part.

Senior Class Donates Funds For Bicycle Unit At ESSTC

SENIOR CLASS members at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College voted this weekend to donate funds for establishment of a bicycle unit on campus.

Class members set aside their $650 departing gift for the purchase of English bicycles, racks and other necessary equipment for the unit.

The unit should be ready to operate on the college campus in the Fall. Students have suggested that it be called Shane MacCarthy Bicycle Unit 1.

Basic idea for the gift came from a recent address on campus by Dr. Shane MacCarthy, executive director of President Eisenhower's Council On Youth Fitness. MacCarthy recommended cycling as a valuable form of exercise and drew attention to the fact that few colleges in the nation actually make use of space which could be utilized for that purpose.

Promoting Idea

Shortly after the MacCarthy address a graduating senior, Joyce Fuhrman of Hanover, began promoting the idea of a class contribution to help start a bicycle unit.

Genevieve Zimbar, adviser to the Youth Fitness Committee on campus and acting head of the Health Education Department, said last night that details of the project will be worked out this Summer by Miss Fuhrman, John Powers, class president and Miss Zimbar.

If all goes well, Miss Zimbar said, the unit should be ready to be put in operation this Fall.

House Aims At Voting Change

HARRISBURG, May 26 (AP)—The House today approved a plan aimed at ultimately changing the State Constitution to reduce the legal voting age from 21 to 18.

The measure, already passed unanimously by the Senate, was endorsed 159-1 by the House. The sole dissenting vote was cast by Rep. Davis (R—Forest).

If approved again by the 1959 Legislature, it would then go before the voters in a statewide referendum.

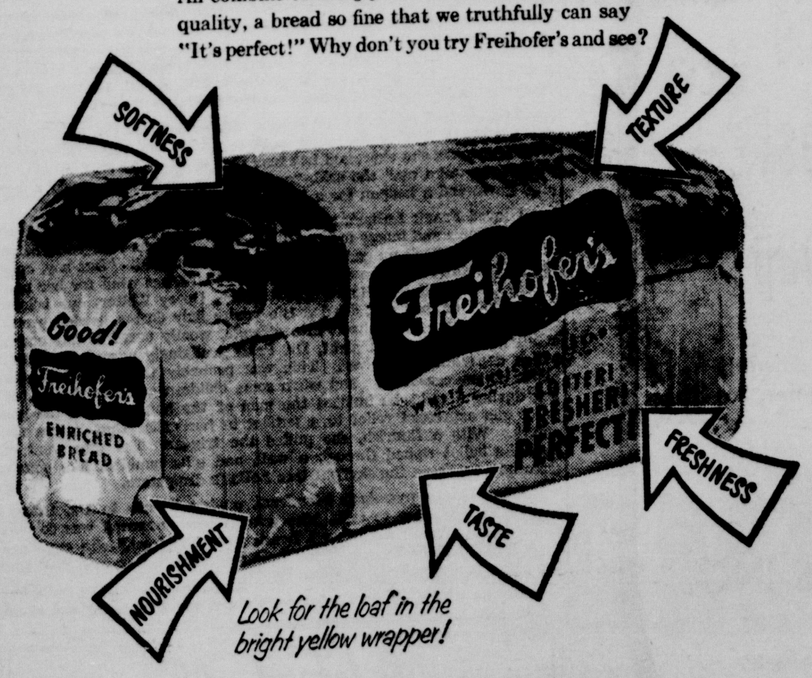

The action highlighted a routine House session that saw 26 pieces of legislation passed without debate.

Miss Jane Ifft Is Bride Of William G. Humphreys Here

The wedding of Miss Jane Louise Ifft, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Ifft of 721 Brown St., Stroudsburg, and William Griffith Humphreys, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Humphreys of 118 East Providence Road, Aldan, Pa., was a highlight of Saturday afternoon.

The Rev. John Bollier performed the cremony at 2:30 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church, Stroudsburg. Bouquets of daisies, snapdragons and cornflowers, against banks of greens, flanked the altar. Numa Snyder was organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina length gown of white silk shantung. The Sabrina neckline was outlined with silk appliques and accented with iridescent sequins. Her fingertip veil of French illusion fell from a headpiece covered with rosettes of net and seed pearls. She wore pearl earrings, a gift of the bridegroom, and carried a white testament with a white orchid.

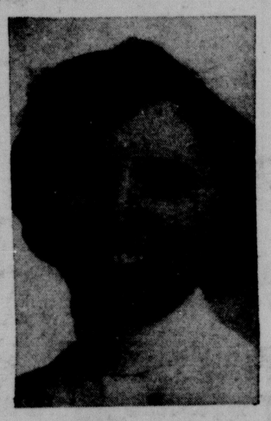

Mrs. Robert Dennis, of Drexel Hill, the former Sue Gordon of Stroudsburg, was matron of honor. Miss Vivian Peterson of Mercer was bridesmaid. They both wore dresses of blue crystalette with clips of blue net for their hair. They carried cascade bouquets of daisies and cornflowers.

Robert Dennis of Drexel Hill was best man. James Ifft, brother of the bride, of Stroudsburg, and John Humphreys, brother of the bridegroom, of Caldwell, N.J., were ushers. Jerry Ifft, another brother of the bride, ushered his mother to her place.

The bride's mother wore a dress of gray silk shantung with a pink picture hat and gloves and a corsage of pink roses. The bridegroom's mother wore a dress of beige lace with a beige chiffon hat trimmed with green and white. White accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

A reception for 75 guests, including relatives and out-of-town friends, at the home of the bride. Leaving for their wedding trip, the bride wore a champagne silk suit with beige and gold accessories.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

For once a big weekend and good weather coincided and everybody seemed to be taking full advantage of it. Saturday was a perfect day for the weddings, and we had them.

The rice from Jane Ifft's wedding.. was.. still.. carpeting.. Main Street like snow yesterday in front of the church... Couldn't help thinking how convenient it is for a bride to have three brothers. One for an usher, one for feeding the parking meters for the guests, and an extra one who can be detailed to escort the mother of the bride to her place.

Next best thing to having a lot of brothers is to have the bridegroom just graduating from college so that he has all his classmates to call upon for wedding tasks as Frances Mooney had for her wedding on Saturday.

Not brothers but husbands were very much in demand at the Junior Woman's Club banquet and dance on Saturday night. There's one club where the husbands are still young enough to regard dancing as a pleasure and not as a chore.

Though judging by all the reunion stories of high school and college, age is not necessarily a factor in how much fun a group can have. As a matter of fact the older the class, the more members they seem to get out and the more enthusiastic they are.

Piano Recital Given By Bender Pupils

The students of Mrs. Eleanor Bender presented a piano recital Saturday, May 25 at the Zion Reformed Church.

The program was opened with the "Star Spangled Banner" played by Rickie Yost. He also played "Chinese Dance" by Tschaikowsky. Mary Elizabeth Dimmick played "Fun at the Fair" and "Gypsy Dance"; Peggy Ann Smith, "Springtime in Vienna" and "Rock 'n Roll Lullaby"; Carol Lee, "Tidbits"; Sharon Beidler, "Soldiers March" by Schumann and "Mother's Sewing Machine."

Sharon and Janet Beidler presented two duets, "Musette" by Bach and "The Merry Farmer" by Schumann. Janet then played "March" by Bach. Paulette Ott played "All Through the Night" and "A Walk In The Woods"; Stephanie Kanyck, "Blue Danube" and "Little Buttercup"; Ronnie Yost, "Lavender Blue." Rickie and Ronnie Yost played "Seventh Inning Stretch" and "Batting Practice" simultaneously on two pianos followed by Rickie, Ronnie, Bob, and Ray Yost playing "Turkey in the Straw" on two pianos. The spring recital was concluded by Phillip Cleaver playing "Tarentella" and "Moonlight Sonata" by Beethoven.

Frances Elizabeth Mooney Bride Of Eugene C. Duffy

Tannersville—Our Lady of Victory Church, Tannersville, was the setting for the wedding of Miss Frances Elizabeth Mooney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis C. Mooney, Sun Hill, Scotrun to Eugene Cahill Duffy, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Duffy of Colonie, N. Y.

They were married at a 10 a.m. nuptial mass on Saturday by Rev. Francis Barrett of St. Matthew's Church, East Stroudsburg, and chaplain of the Newman Club of which both the bride and bridegroom are members.

The bride wore a ballerina-length gown of white lace over taffeta and net with short puffed sleeves and a white taffeta cummerbund extending in the back to form a panel the length of the dress. Her short veil of illusion was held in place by a small crown of pearls and she carried a colonial bouquet of white iris, daisies and gardenias.

She was given in marriage by her father and attended by Miss Dianne Horan, of Scranton. As maid of honor, Miss Horan wore a ballerina length gown of green crystalette and carried a bouquet of pink feathered carnations with a headpiece of the same flowers.

Robert Duffy of Scranton was his brother's best man. Ushers were a college classmate of the bridegroom, Robert Kearn of Wilkes-Barre, and a cousin of the bridegroom, John Scanlon of East Orange, N.J.

The church and altar were all decorated in white flowers in gold vases. Soloist was Miss Joan Plevyak who sang "Panis Angelicus", "Ave Maria" and "'Tis the Month of May". Assisting at the altar were college classmates of the bridegroom, Joseph Sakolosky of Shenandoah and Thomas Kilker of Lost Creek.

A breakfast was held at the Rhineland Inn, Swiftwater for the bridal party and family, with an open house and buffet luncheon at the home of the bride, later.

Mr. and Mrs. Duffy left for a brief wedding trip, returning today for the graduation exercises at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College from which the bridegroom will be graduated today. Mrs. Duffy is a senior at the college.

German Visitors Returning To Homeland

After a ten-month visit with Mrs. Ferdinand Werry of Werry's Motel, Mr. and Mrs. George Werry are preparing to return to their home in Ludwigshafen, Germany. During their stay in this country they toured the East Coast from Niagara Falls to Florida, staying in Florida for a few weeks with Carl Werry.

Among the points of interest they found most inspiring in Monroe County were Winona and Bushkill Falls.

Another highlight of their trip was their visit to the United Nations in New York, where they were guided by a young exchange student from Germany who could speak to them in their native language. They made a tape recording while visiting the observation tower of the Empire State building in which they described the points of interest around them.

Scout Badge Work At Camp Treible

Troop 18, Girl Scouts, spent last weekend at Camp Treible where they worked on their conservation, minstrel and camp craft badges. Counselors were Miss H. Kovach and Miss S. Singer.

Girls who went were Marilyn Miller, Carole Cruse, Susan Harl, Linda Haigh, Virginia LaBar, Mary Teeter, Gail Godshall, Joan Miller and Judy Nagler. Dottie Singer was a guest.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

"God must have loved the Prices, he gave us so many of them," Frank S. LaBar remarked last Thursday evening when more than 100 persons gathered at the Penn-Stroud hotel to honor Dr. Nina Mae Price. Certainly he was right . . . there were Prices to the right and left of him, and a long table of Prices ahead of him . . . but, attractive as all of them were, there was no doubt in the mind of anyone that the Belle of the Ball was bright-eyed, fresh-skinned Dr. Nina, beaming merrily from under a veritable rose garden of a hat.

I respect Dr. Price not only for the years which she has devoted so unstintingly to a needy world, but for her ability to win and hold friends, and the limitless source of energy which permits her to not only join clubs, but actually serve on endless committees for worthy humanitarian projects. I have known her a long, long time. When I was a child, she was, in my eyes, simply the mother of my classmate and friend, Shirley Baierle. More recently she has been an associate in the Business and Professional Women's Club . . . my personal dispenser of pills and good sound advice.

Through the years I have come to know that Nina Price's life hasn't been a bed of roses. When I've been rearly at rope's end with worries of my own, she has consoled me. "I know," she has said quietly, "I know just how you must feel . . . but oh, Madalyn, don't ever forget that life is wonderful. There's always tomorrow . . . and tomorrow we look back and wonder why we were so worried today. It doesn't seem possible now, perhaps—but there are always compensations."

Sometimes she has spoken of things that worried her years ago, and problems she has faced. While listening I have studied the smooth contour of her face, lined only where it has been so frequently crinkled by smiles and laughter . . . I have observed too, how calmly blue her eyes are. I have wondered then about the proverbial fountain of youth that keeps Dr. Price so refreshingly young as she literally romps her way through the seventies. This I know—she has faith in God . . . faith in herself and faith in human beings. If the last receives an occasional jolt, as it must with us all, she rides the tide with the others, and eventually she can laugh away her disappointments. This is a wonderful quality; a miraculous beauty treatment for both body and soul.

There's a funny side to Dr. Price's personality that's just as endearing to those who know her as is her free-handed outpouring of affection and medical care for those in need. It's slightly incongruous at times to walk into her office for a few pills, and find her relaxing after an emergency call in a pair of well-broken-in houseslippers, a robe, and flowered hat. Dr. Price in a surgical garment, is still, ten to one, Dr. Price with a "bouquet" of flowers on her head.

The other evening at her surprise testimonial was the only time in our friendship I have heard Nina Price admit she was "flusticated." With a twinkle, she expressed her fear that it all might be a dream. "I just might wake up," she said, "and discover that I'm wearing a hospital gown and a bedpan for a hat."

I loved Frank LaBar's reminiscing about the days when Dr. Price deserted horse and buggy for an old Model T. "It was four years before she learned to back up and turn around," he revealed. "But boy, could she go AHEAD—and she did, everywhere there was need for her prasence." When Olive Williams' grandfather, Dorey Welter, our beloved police chief of that era, decided the young lady doctor needed protection if she were to gallivant into strange, woolly parts of our county at all hours of day and night, Dr. Price grudgingly agreed to carry a police department revolver. This was probably the most harrowing phase of her career . . . and when some children got into the doctor's bag during a call, she insisted the man of the house unload the gun. Later she expressed relief to a patient in her office that it was now empty. With a flourish, she pulled the trigger. The gun went off . . . the bullet ripped through a wall, and pills tumbled, like pennies from heaven, down the skylight into LeBar's drug store.

After Friday morning's broadcast, paying tribute to Dr. Price, I was given a number to call. The woman who answered was sobbing. "I was eating breakfast when I heard your broadcast," she explained, "and I just had to let you know how beautiful it was and how true. Dr. Price is a wonderful woman!"

Anyone who wishes may, for my money, say that again and again!

Junior Woman's Club Close Year With Dinner-Dance

Smiling clown place cards set the mood of the dinner dance held on Saturday night by the Junior Woman's Club as the climax of their year's activities. There were 92 members and their husbands or guests present for the dinner held at the Bushkill Falls House.

It was primarily a social meeting, and the clown faces also recalled the club's major project of the year, the Circus Bazaar. Mrs. Richard MacDonough, retiring president, welcomed the guests and presented a gift of appreciation to the club's senior advisor, Mrs. Richard Altemose. Mrs. Claude Leister, president of the Monroe County Federation of Woman's Clubs; Mrs. Theodore Hoffman, immediate past president of the Stroud Community Club; and Mrs. Horace Westbrook, of the Daily Record, were also guests.

Mrs. Robert Bixler, Jr., new president of the club, presented Mrs. MacDonough with a gift from the club for her services as president. Mrs. Elwood German presented Mrs. MacDonough with a scrapbook of her administration.

Dancing in the Club Carousel at Bushkill Falls House followed the banquet.

Stroudsburg Little League Opens New Campaign

Security Trust, VFW, Wyckoff's Win Inaugurals

WYCKOFF-SEARS, Security Trust and VFW posted victories as the Stroudsburg Little League opened its 1957 campaign yesterday at Little League Park. W-S defeated First National Bank, 3-1, Security downed Stout's Glass Works, 1-0 in an extra inning, and Veteran of Foreign Wars edged Penn-Stroud Hotel, 3-2.

A parade led by elements of the Stroudsburg High Band, LL officials from the Penn-Stroud Hotel to the park proceeded the actual opening. At the park, flag-raising ceremonies inaugurated the '57 season.

Burgess Hal Harris of Stroudsburg officially got the campaign under way by tossing out the first ball.

Bond Wins

Wyckoff's scored a run each in the fifth and sixth frames to take the measure of the Bankers. Bond went all the way to pick up the mound win for W-S, while Chaplin, who also went the distance, took the loss. W-S' Frantz was the game's top hitter with 2-for-2.

Messler tallied the winning run for Security Trust in the seventh frame — overtime — which downed Stout's. Nevil, who followed Messler to the hill, received credit for the win. Osborn, in relief of Canfield, absorbed the loss. Kintz, of the winners, got the tilt's big blow, a double.

Lead Holds Up

The Vets scored in the middle frames and their three-run outburst held up for its win over Penn-Stroud. Bisbing gained the pitching win, while Grover, despite nine strikeouts chalked up, took the setback. The losers' Bentzoni, with 2-for-three, plucked off game batting laurels.

Today's Game

WYCKOFF-SEARS will take on Veteran of Foreign Wars in the second day of action in the loop today at LL park. Game time is 6 p.m.

But the fans, no matter how hard they were rooting for their favorites, all seemed to give out with the same feeling, "It was the finest ball game anyone would like to see."

Chet Gross, and Dick Wolslayer Sr., hardy backers of Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg respectively, probably are two excellent examples of how the diehards at each school felt.

Said Gross, who has a son, Tom, holding down a pitchers position of the Mountaineers hill staff, "Certainly I wanted to see the Jerry Stulgaitis team win, but there is no denying that tilt was a picture to behold. Too bad, Stroudsburg couldn't have been on the other end of that score."

Wolslayer, father of Dick Jr. player who is a catcher-outfielder on the Jack Kist-tutored nine, remarked, "Naturally, I was rooting for Eastburg, and I was more than pleased with the final result. It was a whale of a game. One of the finest exhibitions by two schoolboys teams, these eyes have seen in quite a spell."

We'll go along with the remarks of both of these men and say they speak for a majority of the people (500 or more) who witnessed the diamond version of the "battle of the boroughs". It was truly a picture to behold and certainly one of the finest exhibitions of two scholastic nines viewed in some time.

The game produced an ideal setup for John Whitehead, Stroudsburg's High football coach. Whitehead who served as the game's official scorer because it was the Mountaineers home game, did not have one play in which doubt on whether to give a batter a hit or a fielder an error. The closest to a miscue was an error of omission situation when three Mountaineers got their signals crossed and let a pop fly hit by Hickman fall between them for a had-to-give single. However, Hickman's safety did not figure in the scoring.

The fielding gems were divided among the two rivals. Eastburg's co-captain and leftfielder Frank Lupin provided two of the thrills when he twice went back deep in left field to corral two high drives off the bats of Snyder and Mountaineer second baseman Ron Stopp. On Stopp's attempted blast to the seats, Lupin had his back to the bleachers and reached above his head to pluck off the drive.

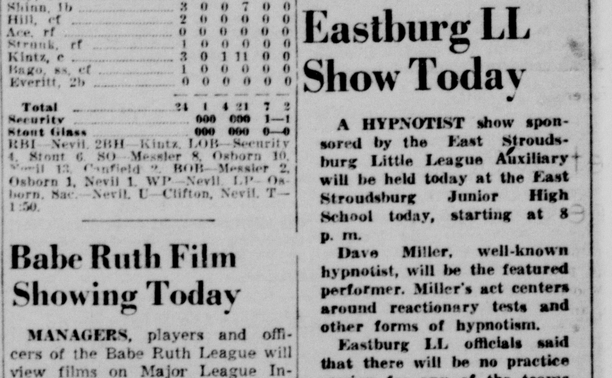

Stroudsburg's Charley Cramsey, also a leftfielder, got a good round of applause when he pulled in Helmut Gartner's hoist and fired a perfect strike to first base to double off Corky Smith who had walked and ran on the fly to Cramsey's territory.

And of course you can't overlook Hickman's start of the double play in the first inning which got the lean lefthander out of a big jam and opened the door to his stellar pitching performance. The Bushkill resident pounced off the mound on a Charley Cramsey smash to the box—the bases were loaded at the time— threw to home plate to get Barry Tretheway on a force. Eastburg catcher Bob Herman, in turn fired to first to double Cramsey. Two big outs which eventually proved to shut the door on the Mountaineers for the rest of the night.

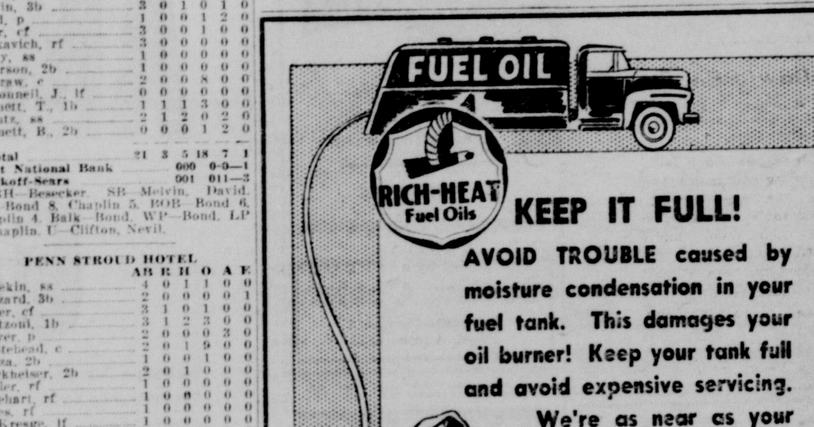

No matter how you look at it, the game is history, but from this vantage point, a nicer one couldn't have been put among the records of victorious East Stroudsburg High or vanquished Stroudsburg.

Lake Harmony Ups Lead In PM Loop

Strouds Drop First; West End, Bushkill Tied For 2nd; Reeders Wins In 10 Frames

LAKE HARMONY pulled one full game in front, West End knocked the Strouds from the ranks of the unbeaten, and Bushkill moved into a second place tie with West End to highlight action in the Pocono Mountain Baseball League yesterday.

Unbeaten Lake Harmony notched its fifth straight by edging Tannersville, 5-3; West End corralled the Strouds, 5-1, Bushkill overpowered Barrett, 10-6; Saylorsburg walloped Analomink, 12-3; and Reeders outlasted Kunkletown, 10-9, in 10 innings.

4-Hitter For Burkett

kett's four-hit pitching fired West End to a 5-1 victory over the Strouds at Gordon Giffels field yesterday. It was the first loss in four games for the Strouds. The win was West End's fourth in five starts.

Burkett was never behind after his mates gave him a 2-0 lead in the first frame. The Strouds run came in the fifth to cut the margin, 2-1. But the Enders came up with one in the eighth and two in the ninth to salt the win away.

Paces Attack

W. Weiss, of the winners, got two of the five hits off Stroud hurlers Al Shoch, the loser, and Jake Jacobsen. One of Weiss' blows was a homer in the ninth.

Cost Of Living Increases

WASHINGTON, May 26 (AP)—The cost of living went up again last month.

A rise of three-tenths of one per cent was recorded by the government's Bureau of Labor Statistics. It brought the living cost index to 119.3 per cent of the 1947-49 average, a new high record.

This means that it took about $1.20 in April to buy the same amount of goods and services you could get for $1 in the 1947-49 period.

It was the eighth straight month in which living costs set a record.

Average

Average weekly earning of an unmarried factory worker, after tax deductions, were computed at $67.09 in April. This compared with $65.08 in April a year ago, but the bureau said the increase was more than absorbed by rising prices.

A sharp, seasonal jump in food prices was the principal factor in last month's rise. All cuts of meat went up, fresh fruit prices increased 4.6 per cent and fresh vegetables were higher. The price of onions alone leaped 17.5 per cent.

The cost of living index edged up enough to give automatic wage boosts of two cents an hour to 1,400,000 workers in the automobile, electrical and farm equipment industries. Their union contracts are geared to living costs as computed by the government.

Food is figured to be 3.8 per cent higher than April, 1956, the same amount of increase as that recorded for living costs as a whole in the last 12 months.

Milk prices declined seasonally, and coffee costs were down for the fifth consecutive month.

All components of housing crept upward, the bureau reported, with rent rising a tenth of one per cent and hour furnishings two-tenths of one per cent.

Reading and recreation recorded the largest monthly increase in more than six years — 1.12 per cent. Ewan Clague, head of the bureau, said this "reflects chiefly higher prices for newspapers in several cities."

Television sets and repairs were higher in the recreation category, as well as the prices of used cars, gasoline, oil and car repairs. There was a dip in the prices actually paid for new cars and tires.

The cost of clothing declined three-tenths of one per cent, mainly, the bureau said, because of lower prices offered following the Easter buying.

Clague said food prices are still on the rise, indicating still higher living costs in May and possibly the summer months.

Cherry Valley Grange Lodge Presents Flowers To Church

CHERRY VALLEY — Richard Seidof, master, presided over a short business meeting of the Cherry Valley Grange on Thursday night.

In recognition of Rural Life Sunday the Grange decided to place flowers in the Poplar Valley Church.

Several appeals from other granges were answered and an answer from CARE was received saying a recent contribution from the grange had been sent to Yugoslavia.

Festival

On display were the pins to be presented at the Stroud Union School commencement to the outstanding vocational agricultural and home economic students.

The group decided to sponsor a strawberry festival in June, a date to be decided upon later. Also discussed was the visit of the Greeley Grange to Cherry Valley on June 27.

A brief Memorial Day program was presented by the lecturer, Mrs. Sam Getz. Miss Nancy Metzger accompanied the group singing. Mrs. Philip Pittman gave the chaplain's prayer and Mrs. Lydia Metzger gave the tribute by Flora. Mrs. Hannah Kresge read an appropriate poem.

After a buffett supper the members held a work session painting the furniture in the hall.
